Roosevelt to Battle Foes In Dem Primaries

CLAIMS RIGHT TO INTERVENE FOR 'LIBERALS'

President Tells Nation He'll Fight 'Conservatives,' Those Who Misuse His Name.

TALK HITS MAYOR HAGUE

Union Activities Criticized, Speech Refers To 'Mistakes' Of Industry, Government.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt, declaring a right to intervene in Democratic primaries, gave virtual notice today that he was prepared to fight personally for election of a congress favorable to his policies.

In his 12th radio talk to the nation last night, the president made it plain that he would not hesitate to speak out when he thought a contest between a "liberal" and a "conservative" warranted.

Reveals Stand.

"As president of the United States, I am not asking the voters of the country to vote for Democrats next November as opposed to Republicans or members of any other party," he said. "Nor am I, as president, taking part in Democratic primaries.

"As the head of the Democratic party, however, charged with the responsibility of carrying out the definitely liberal declaration of principles set forth in the 1936 Democratic platform, I feel that I have every right to speak in those few instances where there may be a clear issue between candidates for a Democratic nomination involving these principles, or involving a clear misuse of my own name."

Besides touching on politics, the president reviewed the legislation enacted by the last congress and asked for the co-operation of capital and labor in maintaining wages and in replacing federal "pump priming" outlays with private spending.

"Barring unforeseen events," he told his listeners, there would be no special session of congress.

Hails Court 'Victory.'

He mentioned also the defeat last year of his proposal to re-organize the courts and asserted the

CAR HITS TRAIN

Man, 78, Seriously Hurt At Crossing Near Crestline.

Frank Christian, 78, of North Robinson was in a critical condition in the Crestline Emergency hospital today after the automobile in which he was riding with his son-in-law crashed into a Pennsylvania passenger train yesterday afternoon east of Crestline.

The aged man suffered fractures of his shoulder, righ arm and several ribs and possible internal injuries. His son-in-law, B. J. Stinehelfer, 48, also of North Robinson, was treated at the hospital for minor cuts and bruises.

The men were injured when their car apparently collided with the second locomotive of a double-header westbound train, authorities said. Driving west, Stinehelfer had stopped at the crossing on route 30 while an eastbound freight train passed, and is believed to have driven into the other train because his view was obscured by the freight.

BAER TO SIGN

Jacobs Plans to Pit Maxie Against Louis in Fall.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Mike Jacobs, promoter of the recent Louis-Schmeling fight, announced today that he will sign Max Baer to a three-year contract tonight.

"This contract," said Jacobs, "will give me the exclusive use of Baer's services. I plan to pit him against Joe Louis in a title bout in September but I haven't yet decided on the scene of the fight.'"

Mountain Victim?

An army of searchers renewed their hunt today for Medill McCormick, 21, wealthy young sportsman and mountain climber, believed to have perished with a companion while climbing in the Sandia mountain range in New Mexico. The body of his companion, Richard Whitmer, was found crushed at the bottom of a 2,000-foot cliff yesterday. It was feared that McCormick had met a similar fate in the region during a severe storm. He is the son of the late U. S. Senator and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms.

M'CORMICK HEIR BELIEVED DEAD

Mountain Climbing Companion Found Crushed To Death At Foot Of Cliff.

(By International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Gripped by premonitions of a double tragedy, an army of searchers today resumed their hunt for the wealthy young sportsman and mountain climber, Medill McCormick, 21.

Their starting point was the base of "The Shield," a sheer 2,000-foot cliff, where the crushed and broken body of Richard Whitmer, McCormick's hiking companion, was found late yesterday.

It was feared that McCormick, an heir to the vast fortunes of a family famous in the publishing and political fields, had met a similar fate when a furious rainstorm raged through the Sandia mountain range.

McCormick, son of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms and the late Senator Medill McCormick of Chicago, left with Whitmer, who also was 21, to explore Ohe mountains early Wednesday.

When they failed to return here yesterday a search was started which resulted in the finding of young Whitmer's battered body on Silent mountain.

It was the opinion of searchers that the sudden rains left footing precarious on the mountain and that Whitmer and probably his companion as well slipped and hurtled far down to their deaths. They believed that McCormick's body will be found wedged in some crevice in the precipitous range.

So distraught was Mrs. Simms at the realization that Whitmer had been killed that it was with difficulty she was restrained from attempting to scale the cliff alone in the darkness last night. Governor Clyde Tingley, who personally assisted in the search, dissuaded her.

CITY WITHOUT AID AS RELIEF PLAN'S KILLED

House Rejects Compromise Program On Ground Funds Would Be Inadequate.

NO STATE HELP IN SIGHT

Bill Called For 'Mortgaging" Future Tax Revenue; Senate Incensed, Goes Home.

Mansfield and Richland county, now meeting relief needs "on the cuff" along with the rest of distressed counties throughout Ohio, today saw little chance of obtaining state help for the balance of 1938 as a compromise relief program was smashed to bits by the house of representatives in Columbus yesterday on the grounds of its inadequacy.

Dispatches said the senate, incensed at the house refusal to go along with its committee report on the tax extension bill, quit work and went home after voting to reconvene next Thursday.

Limited Borrowing.

The house voted down the key financing measure because under the conference report for extension through 1941 of utilities, beer, malt, wort and admissions taxes, distressed counties could have borrowed only against 70 per cent of 90 per cent of receipts anticipated for 1940 and 1941.

This would have produced approximately $5,500,000 for the 24 counties regarded as needing additional funds for the rest of 1938. Richland county would have shared to the amount of $57,000, most of which would have gone to Mansfield.

Called for Matching.

The plan called for a matching program at which city and county officials here rebelled, declaring that the program was inadequate in that neither the city nor the county was in position to raise the matching funds.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Ciyt Auditor Paul L. Kelley declared that the program "would only mortgage the future."

Dispatches said the impasse reached after six weeks of debate left the state without any type of a relief program and little chance for passage of one before the next special session, expected sometime in November.

EFFINGER LOSES

Black Legion Chief Denied Appeals Court Plea.

LIMA—(INS)—Virgil Effinger, reputed former leader of the Black Legion, today lost his plea to the third district appeals court to avoid extradition to Detroit to answer charges of criminal syndicalism.

The appellate court found no error in proceedings of the lower court which several months ago ordered Effinger's extradition. The lower court's action was affirmed, with costs assessed against Effinger.

Clarence Miller, Effinger's counsel, said the appeals court would be asked to grant a re-hearing and if this were denied, he would carry the case to the state supreme court.

College Boys Show Skill as Pilots at Akron Flying Meet

(By Associated Press)

AKRON—A collection of college boys competed in an airplane "track meet" at Akron airport today without any paying customers in the stands to cheer them on.

The youngsters, all undergraduates, represented a dozen colleges from New England to California in this latest of intercollegiate sports.

The idea, as explained by Kenneth Benson, managing the meet for the host flying club, Akron university's "Cloudhoppers," was to promote college flying as a recognized extra-curricular activity.

The contestants admitted that a corollary function of the meet was to convince anxious parents that they could fly light planes without breaking their necks.

For this, the fourth annual meet sponsored by the National Intercollegiate Flying club, entries had been received from Harvard, Toledo university, San Jose State college, University of Detroit, Kenyon college, University of Minnesota, Stanford, University of Toronto, University of Michigan, Amherst, Lawrence Institute of Technology (Detroit) and Akron.

Award of a half dozen loving cups was the sole stake for the two-day meet. Contestants were supplied with gasoline and oil for the engines of their small, skeeter-like ships, but apart from that their expenses came out of pocket.

Urge County School Head's Ouster In Rural Wrangle

Board Members Blame Robinson In Redistricting Controversy; Heated Session Expected Today.

BULLETIN

After nearly two hours, the county board of education was still in session at 12:45 p. m. and loud voices could be heard coming from the board's conference room in the county superintendent's quarters at the courthouse.

A controversy over the consolidation of rural schools in four townships in northern Richland county had settled about the head of Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, today, with at least two of the five members of the county board of education asking that he be replaced.

Developments in the past few days pointed to a heated session of the county board at noon today at the courthouse, where final action was to be taken on the redistricting program in tne county, members said.

Want Wrangle Brought to Head.

Blaming Robinson for the ill-feeling caused in the northern part of the county by the consolidation movement, F. W. Hunt and C. G. Tugend, members of the county board, said before the meeting that they planned to "bring the wrangle to a head."

Neil H. Robinson, another member, said "any movement to remove the county superintendent is based on politics."

The superintendent said he understood the redistricting program had been temporarily stalled until next year, with all of the major

TAX NOTES TO AID CLEVELAND

Banks Agree to Buy $337,000 in Paper For Relief.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The desperate relief situation here was relieved somewhat today by the announcement that the city's banks had agreed to buy $337,000 worth of 1939 sales tax anticipation notes.

Finance Director G. A. Gesell said it was possible that the money might be available as early as Monday. With Mayor Harold H. Burton he said that a large part of the fund would necessarily be used to pay May and June rent and utility bills for relief clients.

Part of it, however, will be available for food orders for next week. The sum is not large enough to pay for food orders for much more than a week, Gesell said.

NO GAME TODAY

Rain Halts Indians; Play Sox Twice at Stadium Tomorrow.

Today's game postponed on account of rain, the fast-stepping Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox will resume their series with a double-header at the Cleveland stadium Sunday.

Many Mansfield followers of the Indians are expected to attend the games in which Bob Feller and Johnny Allen are the likely starting hurlers for the league leaders.

HEARS CHARGE

NLRB Examiner Comes To City Monday For O. B. Case.

Hearing of charges of unfair labor practices against the Ohio Brass company will open in probate courtrooms Monday by a National Labor Relations board examiner, dispatches from Cleveland, regional NLRB headquarters, said today.

Charges were brought against the company by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, a CIO affiliate, the dispatches said. The complaint charges that the company discharged Tony Colace, 23 St. Clair street, for union activity and that it discouraged union activity in its Mansfield plant.

The company has filed a denial of all the union's charges, asserting that the discharge of Colace was because of "business reasons and his unfitness to serve as an employe."

The NLRB trial examiner has not yet been named, dispatches said. The hearing will be the NLRB's first in Mansfield.

NEBRASKA EYES HUGE HARVESTS

Sees Farms, Business Return to Normal Again.

LINCOLN, Neb.—(AP)—Nebraska farmers and business men looked upon green fields today as marking return of normal agricultural conditions after four years of severe drought.

Crop conditions generally, said Arnold Nordquist, assistant federal-state crop statistician, were better at the beginning of the summer season than any time since 1933.

On the eve of the wheat harvest, some authorities predicted the yield would total nearly 70,000,000 bushels, second largest on record.

MAXIE RALLIES

Boxer Will Leave Hospital in 10 Days, Doctors Say.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Max Schmeling, injured German heavyweight is improving so rapidly he will be able to leave the hospital within ten days, hospital authorities said today.

A. A. Jaller, hospital superintendent, declared Schmeling's spine, injured when Joe Louis knocked him out, is mending rapidly. He slept well last night and at a hearty breakfast.

RAIN BREAKS UP FIRST HEAT WAVE

Mercury Tumbles After Reaching 91 Friday; Sunday To Be Cooler, Forecast.

Partial relief came to Mansfield and Ohio today, as rain lowered temperatures, and Sunday will be quite a bit cooler, the forecast indicated.

After touching a high of 91 yesterday afternoon—the year's top mark to date, the mercury was back to 82 at noon today.

While Mansfield experienced only intermittent rains, there were destructive windstorms late yesterday in northern Ohio.

Rainfall measured nearly one-fourth inch in Mansfield last night and this morning. The heavy wind and rain storms were reported in the Cleveland and Fremont areas.

More thundershowers were due tonight and possibly Sunday morning, and a drop in temperatures was predicted for Sunday.

Yesterday's record of 91 degrees was one degree above the top for the two preceding days.

Mansfield was one of the warmest spots in the state yesterday, only two major weather stations, Columbus and Sandusky, reporting higher temperatures. It was 92 at both points.

DAVEY PROPOSAL CHILLS SOLONS

Committee Tables Plan to Exempt Tax on Buildings.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey's proposal for a constitutional amendment to exempt new buildings and improvements from taxation for five years met a cool reception at the hands of the house taxation committee.

A resolution proposing submission of the amendment to the voters at the August primary election was promptly tabled last night by the committee, 8 to 4, and it probably will not be revived. The senate did not act on it.

Final approval was given the governor's $13,000,000 welfare building program and he was expected to sign it promptly when it reaches his desk next week.

Driver's Five 'Beers' Halt Whisky Cargo

432 Cases of Liquor Held By Police as Truckman Gets 90-Day Term.

A consignment of 432 cases of legal whisky would have been delivered to the state board of liquor control in Columbus today if the driver of an interstate freight truck had not stopped to imbibe in five glasses of beer yesterday afternoon.

As the result of an accident which occurred on Park avenue east, just west of the subway at 5 p. m. yesterday, the liquor was held at the G. L. Rogers company on Park avenue east, under a police guard while the operator of the truck will spend at least 90 days in jail.

Faces Second Charge.

George L. Lawrence, about 35, of Chicago, convicted on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol when arraigned in municipal court today was sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined $100 and costs

Monday he will face Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch on a charge of displaying an operator's license issued to another person. The charge was filed by Police Chief Meade K. Bates after testimony in court had revealed that he was using a license issued to his brother-in-law.

Three persons testified in court today that Lawrence was the cause of the accident in which the truck he was operating for the Jaffa Trucking company of Chicago, toppled over on the street after sideswiping three cars, damaging another and running two cars off the highway between Mansfield and Ashland.

The truck with the nine-ton load of whiskey, overturned at the subway while enroute from New York to Columbus. Witnesses said the vehicle came through the subway "at a high rate of speed" and failed to negotiate the turn to the right and plowed into three out-of-state cars which had stopped for the red light.

Traffic was detoured over West Fourth street from Ashland road for nearly four hours until

NAZIS ANSWER

Reject U. S. Protests Against Jewish Property Decree.

BERLIN —(U.P.)— Reliable Jewish sources reported today that the German answer to the United States protest against the Jewish property registration decree was basically a rejection, but contained a counter proposal.

The registration decree ordered all Jews to register with the government any property they possessed in excess of 5,000 marks ($2,000). However, a modification was made that as regards foreign Jews only those resident in Germany need register.

On May 9 the United States protested against the decree. Germany's answer was delivered to the embassy yesterday.

EXPECT WORD AFTER SHARP CUT IN PRICES

Slash Ranges From $3 To $4 Per Ton On Products Of Carnegie Illinois.

BACK TO 1928 SCALE

U. S. Steel Says No Assurance Given That Pay Reductions Won't Be Ordered.

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH—Big steel's surprise cutting of steel prices $3 to $4 in Pittsburgh and as much as $6 in Chicago, left the industry puzzling today about wages.

The decreases announced yesterday by Carnegie Illinois Steel, the nation's largest producer and largest subsidiary of U. S. Steel, ranged from 7 to 21 per cent and eliminated differentials between Pittsburgh and Chicago.

Returns to 1928 Level.

The new prices approximated the level of 10 years ago and were made, the company said, to meet competitive conditions. Officials added informally the wage question was not involved and that anything affecting them must be discussed with the CIO's Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

Most of the industry expected wages would be slashed. Observers pointed out that big steel alone, if all its units made corresponding reductions, would lose $50,000,000 or more in revenue on such a volume as last year's of $964,000,000.

They saw significance also in the series of conferences in New York between high executives of U. S. Steel and leaders of the SWOC, including its chairman, Philip Murray.

Months ago Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel, declared it would be impossible to reduce the price of steel without a corresponding reduction in wages. When the union agreement was renewed in February, a clause was inserted giving the company the right to demand changes, such as a wage reduction, and to abrogate it within 20 days unless some understanding was reached.

Points to Monopoly Quiz.

Senator Bulkley (D., Ohio) commented that "big steel may be trying to get a little ahead of the monopoly investigation."

Countess Barbara Told to Go Into Hiding With Son

LONDON—(U.P.)—Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow has been advised to go into hiding to safeguard her two-year-old son Lance, it was reported today.

The report came after a conference between the countess and two Scotland Yard chiefs who visited her at her home yesterday. Also, coincident with the report, the close guard at the countess's Regent Park residence—a country estate in the heart of London—was noticeably relaxed.

It was asserted that the countess had been urged to take her son away from London and to tell no one where she was going and remain in hiding until the problem of her future and that of her handsome Danish husband Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow had been determined.

The countess was understood to have obtained at Bow street police court a warrant under which the count, now in Paris, would be required to go before a magistrate at once if he returned to great Britain. The countess sought an order, it was said, restraining the count from interfering with her or the child.

CHURCH MARKS 50TH YEAR AT RITES SUNDAY

Ashland Methodists Observe Dedication Anniversary; Professor to Speak.

ASHLAND—The fiftieth anniversary of the dedication of the Methodist church here on the corner of Cottage and Second streets will be observed Sunday with special programs, it was announced by Rev. A. A. Hunter, pastor.

The dedicatory address was delivered by Dr. Payne, president of Delaware college.

One of the unusual highlights of the dedication 50 years ago was that the main speaker would not make his speech until the members had guaranteed to make up a deficit of $8,000 which existed. He declared that he proposed to "dedicate the church to God rather than to the sheriff."

Main speaker for the program Sunday will be Dr. William C. Pautz, head of the history department of Baldwin-Wallace college at Berea. He will speak at morning services beginning at 10:30.

Evening services will begin at 7:30.

A feature of the morning program will be the presentation of a memorial tablet dedicated to the late Herbert R. Whiting, pastor of the local congregation at the time a new educational building was built. The tablet is being presented by Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur E. Johnson.

DRIVER PLEADS GUILTY .

ASHLAND — George Roseborough of this city pleaded not guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated on being arraigned in police court, but later he entered a plea of guilty of reckless driving.

DELANO LODGE BRINGS RELIEF WORK TO HALT

$5,353 Expended Since Dec. 1 To Aid Idle Steel Workers, Detailed Report Shows.

Delano lodge, Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, today announced it had halted its distribution of relief to idle employes of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, and released a detailed report of activities and expenditures.

The union started its relief activities last Dec. 1, and continued them until last week, although it had originally intended to help unemployed workers for no more than two months.

The lodge reported that it had spent a total of $5,353, of which $4,465 was spent for commodities, with the balance being used for operating expense, garden cost and medical emergencies.

A total of 3,159 relief orders was issued, at an average cost of $1.31 per order, and food was issued on 32 different occasions, the report showed.

Employes Contribute.

The funds came from donations, which totalled $1,409, and from the employes' civic fund. The latter was created through assessment against each worker of a third of one per cent of his pay, handled by the company, but distributed through trustees of the fund, all of whom are employes.

Officials explained that the fund still had a balance, but relief expenses had been so high that it was deemed inadvisable to continue expenditures at such a rate. They expresed the hope that WPA projects would provide work for some employes who have been laid off at the steel mill.

Members of the Delano lodge relief committee, which had charge of all relief distribution, included W. F. Bell, chairman; Cooper Adams, secretary; D. R. Fields, treasurer; H. L. Anderson, chairman of the distribution committee; Harry Boyer, E. E. Adams, Marvin Adams, Aaron Davis, George Schuler, Jack Hamilton, Al Conroy, Ralph Lumpkin, Sam Hollingsworth, Robert Russell, Louis Christy and Ellery Cook.

Both groups issued a statement of appreciation to all who had contributed either commodities or money to the work.

FUNERAL TODAY

William VanDorn, Found Dead In Bed, Buried at Johnsville.

GALION — Funeral services were held at 2 p. m. today for William Van Dorn, 81, who was found dead in his bed at his home in North Bloomfield township, south of Galion, Thursday morning. Burial was made in the cemetery at Johnsville.

He was born in Congress township, Morrow county, the son of Nelson and Mary Van Dorn. He was a member of the Baptist church at Ashley.

Surviving are his widow, Esther; a son, Ray; three brothers, Charles of Pulaskiville, John and George of Missouri; and three sisters, Mrs. Abbie Hartwell of Galion, Mrs. Elizabeth Baer and Mrs. James Henry of Caledonia.

CANDIDATE HURT

ASHLAND — George Obrecht, farmer of Jeromesville and candidate for nomination for the post of county commissioner here will be six months or more in recovering from painful injuries sustained when he caught both legs in a mowing machine.

For a time, there was danger that his right leg, nearly severed would have to be amputated.

Obrecht had been helping neighbors with chores, when a horse started up, throwing him into the path of the machine. In addition to severing one bone in his right leg, the machine also injured his left leg, but not so severely.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

AROUND the first of May, the cherry trees stood transfigured by white bloom. I broke the slender stem, stripped off the white petals, and ate the little tender cherry at the heart of it, just to boast I had eaten the first one of the season.

Soon the bracks and the entire flower drooped and withered, and a small, well-formed, green fruit emerged from the ruin. Late May winds fanned the branches, rain and sun got in their work, until now, in late June, they hang below the leaves of every twig, a miracle of tempting color.

Just yesterday I climbed into such a laden tree, with cherries dangling about me everywhere. Wasps had punctured the skin of some of the ripest ones and busily sucked the juice. Robins flew to the topmost branches and hurriedly gulped large mouthfuls, leaving half the cherry and the exposed seeds still hanging on the stem.

I filled my pail several times and emptied it into split quart baskets. I smiled to see how well they looked, as I placed them in the shade on the northern side of the trunk. Some blue-grass stems, with heavy seeded heads stood waving between the rows of baskets.

I looked at my new-gleaned wealth of red fruit and thought of cherry pies and rows of well-filled jars in the cellar cupboard. How pleasant it will be in winter time, to sip a bowl of this fine fruit, brimful of the sunshine of May and June.

BUCYRUS RAISES FUNDS FOR NEW POLICE RADIO

Reaches $1,000 Quota For Installation of Two-Way Cruiser Units.

BUCYRUS—The quota of $1,000 set by the advistory council of the city for the purpose of a two-way radio system, has been reached, Mayor George Dustman announced Friday. Plans to purchase and install the equipment, which will give county-wide service, will be made by the council in the near future.

The system will be installed in the new police cruiser and will provide direct contact with police headquarters 24 hours a day.

A total of $1,062 was raised for the purchase of the equipment through popular subscription.

CRAWFORD COURT NOTES

VIRGINIA RESCH, G. R. CALLENDER WED TODAY AT GALION CHURCH

GALION—In a pretty ceremony at 9:30 a. m. today at First Lutheran church, Virginia M. Resch, daughter of Mrs. B. F. Resch of Harding Way West, became the bride of Gene R. Callender, son of R. H. and Carrie Callender of Galion.

Invited guests and a number of other friends were present to witness the ceremony, although open church was not observed. Pink and white roses, palms, and lighted tapers, decorated the church altar where Rev. Harry R. Merle read the single ring service.

Althea Ness was at the organ for Lohengrin's wedding march when the bride entered with her brother, Robert Resch, who gave her in marriage. Preceding the processional, the bride's sisters, Harriet and Margaret, sang "I Love You Truly." Mendelssohn's wedding march was played for the recessional.

The guests were ushered to their places by Kenneth Flick and Richard Garberich.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of powder blue lace with a large picture hat and other accessories of the same shade. A band of dusty pink was used on the hat. Her outfit was completed with a bouquet of pink and blue flowers. She also wore a gold cross with pearls which had been her father's gift to her mother on their wedding day.

The bride's maid of honor, Josephine Bradley, a close friend, wore a dusty pink lace gown with large picture hat and accessories in eggshell shade. Her bouquet was of pink and blue flowers.

Edwin Guinup, a close friend of the couple, was the best man.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother. Blue and white appointments were used. Only the immediate families were present.

Later the couple left for a short wedding trip to Cleveland.

The couple will go to housekeeping immediately in a cottage at Lake Galion.

Both the bride and bridegroom were graduated from Galion high school in 1930.

The bride is employed in the offices of the Galion Iron Works & Mfg. company, and Mr. Callender is a cutter at the Ohio Overcoat company here.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mrs. James Weyan, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Catello of Bucyrus; Mrs. Warren Reece and children of Caledonia.

* * *

The Friday Afternoon club met with Mrs. Henry Knote for a luncheon-bridge, Friday. Two guests, Mrs. Jack Gay of Galion, and Mrs. E. D. Scott of Lansing, Michigan, a house guest at the C. H. Evans home, were also present. The guest prize for cards was won by Mrs. Gay.

* * *

A social hour followed the regular meeting of the Daughters of Union Veterans, Friday afternoon, at the Galion armory. Hostesses who provided refreshments were Virgie Kester, Katherine King, Anna Hipp and Marietta Byrns. Relief work this time amounted to $3.50.

Galion card club members motored to Bucyrus, Friday night; to meet at the home of Mrs. Ralph Schreck, former Galion resident. Refreshments followed the games.

AWAIT ACTION ON STEEL PAY

and Pittsburgh on a price parity on finished products for the first time may have a wide effect on the mid-western market. Most semi-finished steel prices have been corresponding, but yesterday's slashes wiped out the $1 and $2 and more a ton differences on finished products.

MADE NO 'ASSURANCES'

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The United States Steel corporation announced today that it had given "no assurances" that wage reductions will not follow steel price reductions announced yesterday.

While the announcement made no reference to President Roosevelt's speech last night, it appeared that the statement was aimed at that part of the president's message in which he stated that he had been assured that the steel price reductions would not be followed by wage reductions.

The U. S. Steel announcement said:

"No official of the U. S. Steel corporation has given any assurances that wage reductions will not follow steel price reductions announced yesterday.

In his speech last night, President Roosevelt in commenting on wages and prices said:

"Today a great steel company announced a reduction in prices with a view toward stimulating business recovery, and I am gratified to know that this reduction involved no wage cut."

SOUTH EXPANSION LOOMS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP)—Tremendous industrial expansion in the south was forecast today by business and political leaders as a result of elimination of steel price differentials long attacked by southern economists as discriminatory.

REPUBLIC FOLLOWS SUIT

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)— Republic Steel corporation officials announced today that they were meeting immediately the U. S. Steel corporation's $2 to $4 per ton price cut on 16 classifications of steel products, but hinted that it might become necessary to reduce the pay of workers.

MART STILL CLIMBING

NEW YORK—(AP)—For the sixth day in a row the stock market swept upward today, ending a week of the steepest price rise in five years, which added some $5,000,000,000 to the total quoted value of listed shares.

After a first hour sag, a fresh buying splurge developed on the heels of U. S. Steel's announcement none of its officials had given assurance wage reductions would not follow the lower price schedule for its products, announced last night.

Led by the steel shares, leading industrial issues jumped $1 to $4. Trading for the two hour session was around a million shares, ten times the slim volume of a week ago.

U. S. Steel closed at $54.25, up $1.75; Bethlehem steel at $58.12, up $3.50; National Steel $62, up $4.50; Montgomery Ward $40.12, up $1.37; International Harvester, $64.62, up $2.87; International Nickel, $49, up $1.62; Case, $92.50, up $4.50; Texas Corp., $43.87.

REMOVED HOME

BUCYRUS — Dona Frost, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frost, who suffered a fractured skull and severe lacerations in an automobile accident ten days ago, has been released from City hospital and removed to her home.

She is considerably improved.

Her seven-year-old sister, also injured in the crash, was removed to her home several days ago.

FIREWORKS BANNED

SHELBY — The ordinance prohibiting the sale and shooting of fireworks on July 4, will be strictly enforced by Shelby police, Police Chief Leroy Coffey stated today.

ATTEND PARLEY

BUCYRUS—Five persons from Crawford county attended the inter-county meeting of the Ohio Probation association co-operating with the Ohio division of public assistance held Thursday afternoon at Norwalk.

Attending from the county were Rev. J. H. Butler, pastor of First M. E. church, Bucyrus; County Health Nurses Gertrude Kramer and Mrs. Charles Margraff; Probate Judge Constance Keller and Kathryn Flocken, county supervisor of the public assistance program.

BUCYRUS—Word has been received of the death in Toledo of Mrs. Alice Christy, 81, former Bucyrus resident, which occurred Wednesday night. Mrs. Christy moved to Toledo 40 years ago.

MISS DONNA WIERMAN BRIDE OF CARL E. FOX

Service Read at 2:30 P. M. Today by Rev. E. G. Corwin and Bridegroom's Father at First Methodist Episcopal Church.

NUPTIAL MUSIC starting at 2 p. m. began the solemn ceremony which united in marriage this afternoon Miss Donna Elaine Wierman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wallace Wierman, 1090 Park avenue west, and Carl Eugene Fox, Bellaire, son of Rev. and Mrs. P. R. Fox, Port Jefferson. The service, which was read at the First Methodist Episcopal church by the bridegroom's father and Rev. E. G. Corwin, church pastor, was performed at 2:30 p. m.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with an imported organdie redingote made with a slight train, a fingertip veil made halo style and white satin sandals. Her bouquet was made colonial style of American Bride roses, lilies of the valley, chiffon daisies and white larkspur at the edges tied with a large bow of white maline.

She wore a gold link bracelet, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a lace handkerchief which was carried by her grandmother at her wedding in 1888.

Bride's Attendants.

Miss Wierman was attended by her sister, Miss Marlene Wierman, maid of honor, Miss Helen Fox, Cincinnati, and Miss Helen Baughman. The maid of honor wore an aqua imported organdie gown over a taffeta foundation. The skirt opened full down the front over the underslip. Her hat was of natural horse hair with aqua taffeta ties under the chin and around the crown. She carried a colonial bouquet made with one yellow rose in the center surrounded with violas, pink roses, gypsohila, delphinium and tied with pink maline.

The two bridesmaids wore pink organdie over matching taffeta slips. Their hats were also of horse hair in blue with pale pink trim. Miss Wierman also had two junior bridesmaids, Joan Wagner, Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Caroline Miller, Mansfield. The little girls were dressed in pink organdie dresses with matching bonnets trimmed with blue forget-me-nots and blue ribbon bows were at the dress necklines. The maid of honor and the bridesmaid wore tiny shell ornaments, made by the bride's mother, on their dresses at the corners of the square necklines.

Their flowers were all made in colonial bouquets of identical flowers with the junior bridesmaids carrying miniature replicas of the larger arrangements. The bouquets were made of yellow roses, pink and lavender larkspur, delphinium and gypsophila.

Herbert C. Doughty, Canton, served as best man and ushers were Joe Fox, Port Jefferson; Fred Fox, Van Wert; Dean Chatlain and Don Pringle, Shadyside.

Nuptial Music.

Mrs. Elsie Ireland, organist, played "One Alone," "I Love You Truly," "At Dawning," "O, Promise Me" and "Liebestraum" for the double ring ceremony. D. W. Yambert, uncle of the bride from Knoxville, Tenn., sang "Because" and "Sweetest Story Ever Told."

The church was trimmed with palms and ferns and baskets of gladioli, delphinium, shasta daisies and gypsophila. Seven branch candelabra and two cathedral candles lighted the altar and white ribbons marked the rows of pews.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Wierman wore powder blue net with lace inserts and Mrs. Fox wore royal blue net over taffeta. Mrs. Wierman wore pink roses, delphinium and gypsophila. Mrs. Fox wore yellow roses with delphinium and gypsophila.

Immediately following the open church ceremony a tea is being held in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The table centerpieces are of delphinium, pink, white and lavender larkspur, pink roses, coreopsis and gypsophila. Later the couple will leave for a two weeks' trip through the southern states.

For her wedding trip Mrs Fox is wearing a white mohair suit with matching accessories and brown and white shoes. The couple will be at home early in July at Bellaire where Mr. Fox is employed as an electrical engineer by the Ohio Power company.

Pianist, Violinist Give Joint Recital

Mrs. Edward Gibson, violinist, and Mrs. Marie Marks Porterfield, pianist, appeared in joint recital last night at their Park avenue west home before a group of their students and parents of pupils. Each presented two groups of selections.

"Airoso," by Bach, "Praeludium and Allegro" by Pugnani-Kreisler, "Old Folks At Home" by Foster-Kreisler, "Czardas" by Monti and "Midnight Bells" by Heuberger-Kreisler were Mrs. Gibson's numbers.

Mrs. Porterfield played "Prelude Fugue D flat Minor" by Bach, "Gavotte and Musette" by d'Albert ano three Chopin numbers, "Prelude," "Nocturne" and "Ballade."

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Lancaster Girl Becomes Bride of Former Resident

At 2:30 p. m. today a former Mansfielder, Robert Willson Hetler, Flint, Mich., son of Samuel W. Hetler, 416 West Fourth street, took as his bride Miss Mary Louise Durant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul K. Durant, Lancaster. The ceremony was performed at the First Methodist Episcopal church by the pastor, Rev. E. F. Andree.

For the ceremony Miss Durant wore a white chantilly lace gown with a short train. The dress was made with a bolero jacket. Her veil was finger-tip length attached to a pleated halo trimmed in pearl orange blossoms. Her bouquet was made in the colonial style of gardenias, forget-me-nots and Briarcliff roses.

She was attended by Miss Betty Jane Groff, Shaker Heights. Waldo Werner, Genoea, was best man and Paul K. Durant, brother of the bride, and Austin Secoy were ushers.

A reception for 75 followed at the Mithoff Inn, and the couple will make their home in Flint after July 5.

Miss Hout Entertains Missionary Society

For the final meeting of the year Miss Leona Hout entertained members of the Young People's Missionary society of the First Methodist Episcopal church last night at her home on Sturges avenue. Devotions were led by Miss Miriam Miller and a short business meeting and program followed.

The various homes and schools supported by the national Queen Esther's budget were discussed and each member participated. Miss Marjorie Beidelschies talked on the Chinese home in San Francisco and Miss Alice Browning gave a talk on the Browning home and the Nather academy at Camden. A social hour with music, games and refreshments followed.

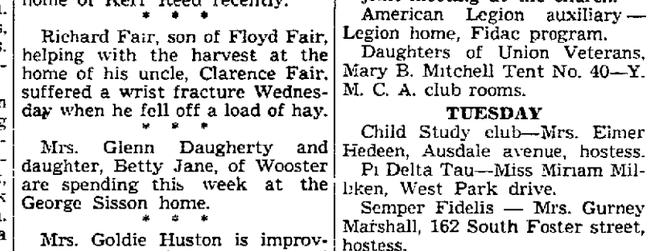
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WATCH THESE FACTORS

A relatively new player should be taught that usually his first move in making a suit contract should be the leading of trumps, which should be continued until the defenders have none left. Then he should be taught to watch for the two main factors which make it advisable sometimes to defer trump leads. One is the necessity of using the dummy's trumps to ruff out losers. The other is the need of obtaining discards of losers on a side suit which he establishes before leading trumps. Sometimes both reasons are combined in a single hand.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

After passes by West and North, East bid 1-Diamond. South overcalled with 1-Spade, North responded with 2-Hearts, South 2-Spades and North 4-Spades.

When the diamond K was led, South saw one possible spade loser, one sure heart loser, one diamond and more if opponents led trumps, and two clubs. Declarer won the first lead with the diamond A and immediately led a heart, which East won with the A. A club was returned by East to knock out the entry in dummy. On the hearts K and Q South discarded two clubs. He then led a diamond to East, who was then in such a position that everything led would give the declarer the remainder of the tricks.

To have drawn trumps with this hand at once would have been disastrous.

HOROSCOPE

For Monday, June 27.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a very lively and progressive day, with sudden developments of a surprising nature in the way of speculative opportunities to expand the fortunes.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of opportunity for expanding the fortunes and putting matters on a paying basis for the future. It may be a speculative opportunity for a quick coupe, and may call for an unexpected change of importance with an entire rearrangement of the affairs.

A child born on this day may be capable, ambitious, proud, expansive and generous, with much popularity and prestige urging it into a position of public importance.

* * *

For Sunday, June 26.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a very intriguing one, with much activity shown for many peculiar or surprising developments. It may be that secret complications may develop sordid or sinister angles or curious entanglements, calling for vigilance and discretion.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of rather peculiar, sudden and surprising experiences, with intrigue, adventure and romance looming large. While the latter may give happiness, the secret entanglements might unfold somewhat of the sinister or sordid. In cases of anxiety, consult elders.

A child born on this day may be versatile and enterprising, romantic and disposed to venture off the beaten track. It may be inclined to craftiness, subtlety and collusion in attaining its objectives.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I fairly snatched at the cue Dicky had given me, for his mother was still bristling over the way Katie had announced dinner, and I knew that getting out of the room upon the instant would be the most discreet thing I could do.

"I'll go to my study now," I said, rising with alacrity and moving toward the door. "I probably shan't be but a minute or two, for I imagine the thing about which they wish to consult me is most trivial. I'll have them back in plenty of time for dinner."

"See that you do," Dicky laughed. "I don't want any delay over dinner. The hungriest bear that ever lived has nothing on me for ravenosity—how's that for a lovely word, self-coined — tonight?"

"You shall eat the second Katie says dinner is ready," I told him, laughing, as I went through the door. But the instant I was out of sight, the smile vanished from my face. There was something in his voice and eyes which did not ring true. I did not believe that he was hungry. In fact, I was sure that secretly he was too nervous and anxious to be able to relish food, and that his anxiety for promptness in serving dinner simply spelled his desire to get back to his city as soon as possible.

Boys In Conversation.

I knew, however, that there was only miserable anxiety for myself in pursuing that line of speculation, and I thrust it far back into what I called my "brain attic," and went on into my study where Junior and Roderick were talking so earnestly together, with their backs turned toward me, that they did not hear me come in.

I waited for the fraction of a second until I was sure I betrayed no trace of my hidden anxiety. Then I spoke cheerily.

"Well, laddies, I'm here, ready to hear whatever you have to tell me."

They whirled, plainly startled, then came slowly toward me. That they did not know just how to frame what they wanted to ask me was plainly to be seen, but purposely I kept silent. Both Dicky and I have tried to make them self-reliant, and, besides, I knew that questioning on my part might confuse them.

But I was glad that, due to my anxiety over Dicky, my laughter muscles were not particularly active. Their indecision was ludicrous as they each stood on one foot, scuffing the other around, and with foreheads furrowed with anxiety.

Finally, after a long look at each other, Roderick blurted out:

"It's about Granzie."

I had suspected as much when they had whispered their request to me to come into my study when I could get a chance because they wanted to "ask me something," but I carefully made my face and voice non-committal as I repeated:

"Granzie?"

Junior Explains.

Then I went close to them, and said in the same low tone with which I had repeated the name:

"If you don't want Granzie to hear you, you must remember to keep your voices low."

They gulped and looked anxiously at the door and I guessed that having their grandmother hear them was the thing they desired least. Then, after another exchange of looks, Junior took up the burden of speech.

"It's just this, Mums," he said. "We'll have to push off to bed pretty soon after supper, won't we?"

"You generally do go to bed early, don't you?" I countered warily.

"Yes." The hopefulness which had been in his voice at the first query was flattered out now. "And that's just what's the matter. We haven't had hardly a minute with Dad since he came. First he was with Faith, and then when he came down and we thought he was going to go out and play with us as he promised, why Granzie got hold of him, and she's just been buzzing him ever since. We can't get a word in edgeways."

CHURCH GROUPS HAVE BUSINESS MEETINGS

First Christian Class Has Program of Readings; Three Circles Entertained at Luncheons at Members' Homes.

ACTIVITIES of church groups figured prominently yesterday as a number of organizations were entertained. Mrs. Howard Daubenspeck, 103 West Fifth street, opened her home to 20 members of Class 27 of the First Christian church yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Jesse Byers, president, was in charge of the routine business meeting during which officers gave routine reports.

The program was arranged by Mrs. Ralph Kornoely who presented Mrs. Eva Swisher, Mrs. Jessie Race and Mrs. Charles Rhoades in readings. Sketches were presented by Mrs. W. J. Tappan and Mrs. Mary Thornberry. A guest, Miss Stella Stout, Ganges, spoke to the group, and piano selections were given by Mrs. Kornoely. A social hour and luncheon followed.

When Circle One of the Park Avenue Baptist church met yesterday at the home of Mrs. Wallace Campbell, Lucas road, for a 1 p. m. luncheon Miss Donna Edwards was associate hostess. Mrs. Campbell led the devotions and a program of church music was given by Mrs. Charles Robertson, Mrs. George Vawter and Mrs. Sherman Skaggs. The next meeting will be a picnic July 22 at South park.

Mrs. W. K. Dise, 334 South Main street, was hostess to members of Circle Two of the Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday for a 1 o'clock dessert-luncheon. A routine business meeting was conducted with Mrs. O. E. Widders giving the devotions. The next meeting will be July 22.

At the meeting of Circle Three at the home of Mrs. W. S. Hagerman, 128 East Third street, luncheon was served at 1 o'clock followed by a business meeting. The devotions were led by Mrs. Harry Balliet. It was decided to adjourn during the summer months.

Personals

Mrs. C. A. Crawford, West Fifth street, president of the Ladies Aid of First Methodist church, entertained leaders and officers of the Aid divisions at her cottage at Chippewa lake yesterday.

* * *

Miss Kathleen Sturges, Miss Virginia Starkey, Martin Wolfe and Richard Tappan have returned from a sailing cruise on the lakes where they were guests of the younger Tappan's father, Paul Tappan.

* * *

Mrs. Irilla Wappner, 177 South Diamond, and her family, Miss Margaret, Gene, Carl and Leonard, and her nephew, Charles Hunt, are motoring to the Pacific states. They expect to be gone about two months.

* * *

Miss Betty Bals, Montevideo, Uraguay, S. A. and Miss Marilyn Miller, Pittsburgh, Pa., are both arriving in Mansfield this weekend to spend the summer with Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Stevens, 59 North Mulberry street.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Graham and daughter, Verna Beth, 571 Sloan avenue, left early this morning for New York city where they will attend the wedding of Mr. Graham's sister, Miss Melva Graham, and Howard L. Chernoff, Charleston, W. Va. The wedding will be Monday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Graham will also visit the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Graham.

Miss Edith Hudson Will Be Bride of Robert McCulley

At a recent party given by Miss Rhea Downs, at her home west of Springmill, the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Edith Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E Hudson, Springfield township, to Robert McCulley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. McCulley, near Galion, was made.

Classmates of the bride-elect were the guests and they honored her with a miscellaneous shower. Appointments were yellow and white. The announcement was made on tiny scrolls inserted in rose buds.

Naomi Ruth Downs, sister of the hostess, carried in the gifts and the hostess presented a wedding gift to the honoree. The wedding date is July 4.

Night Lark Club Holds Session at North Park

A covered-dish dinner was served to members and families of the Night Lark club last night at North Lake park with Mrs. Maurice Lehman serving as hostess. Guests of the group were Miss Donna Pritchard and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Calhoun and son, Ashland.

Games followed and Mrs. Earl Fry was the prize winner. A wiener roast was planned for July 7 at South park when Miss Philomen Eberhardt will be hostess. This will be for members and their families.

SPORTS WRITERS SMELL RAT AS COAST DELEGATES BID FOR FIGHT.

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (AP) — Suspicious sports writers began to smell the well-known rat when Robert Taylor, the movie star, was spotted in a delegation of Californians trying to talk Mike Jacobs into staging a heavyweight championship fight in San Francisco next year . . . particularly since Taylor's next picture will be built around a fight story. . . . The westerners are taking it seriously and guaranteed Mike a million potatoes to stage the show. . . . Mike told 'em to rake up the dough and then come back. . . . Six months ago, Mike said: "From now on, all my important shows will be held in New York."

Bob Seeds

* * *

Taylor, by the way, made a big hit with the hard-boiled New York boxing writers, who can spot a phoney a block away. . . . He may be beautiful to the gals, but to the scribes he is just a well set-up, extremely personable young man who uses choice cuss words and knows his boxing and boxers.

* * *

Unusual stories: The Yankees (who own Newark) selling a ball player (Bob Seeds) to the hated Giants. . . . Chicago sports writers say Windy City fans have about given up on the Cubs this year. . . . Note to sports editors: Mike Jacobs will have Max Baer signed to a three-year contract by nightfall and that means a Louis-Baer joust in September if Louis isn't scared off by the high income tax rate. . . .

* * *

Hats off to Art Cohn, sports editor of the Oakland (Cal.) Tribune. . . . The exit line in his column Wednesday read: "Today's wish — some candid cameraman gets a picture of the expression on Herr Hitler's puss tonight when he hears that Schmeling was knocked out in the first round." . . . That's calling 'em Butch, and Gus Uhlmann comes up with the picture in Friday's New York Post.

EARLY arrivals at Ebbets field these days are getting a great kick out of watching Babe Ruth slug that baseball . . . He's fat and forty-odd but still can do tricks with that war club . . . He's lost at least two balls with drives over the palmes every day since he joined the club.

Vet, Kid Fight For Ohio Toga

McCarthy, Carl Reach Finals In Amateur Tourney.

COLUMBUS (AP) A kid who has never won anything worth mentioning, and a veteran who has a host of scalps dangling at his belt, faced each other today at Scioto country club in the 36-hole finals of the 36th annual Ohio Amateur Golf championship.

Charles Carl of Ravenna, 23-year-old captain of Ohio State University's golf team who has won nine of 11 dual matches for the Bucks, was the kid. Maurice J McCarthy, jr of Cincinnati 32-year-old defending champion was the veteran.

McCarthy's entrance into the title flight of 32 was a courtesy the champion getting No 1 spot because of his title. Carl got into the flight through the back door, winning the 32nd berth in a playoff with two others.

McCarthy ripped out a 4 and 2 decision in Friday's semi-finals over Tony Ruddy publinks star from Toledo, the champ finishing one under par.

Liberty Park Takes Turn At 'Johnnies'

Meet In Headline League Game at Johns Park.

Liberty park's softball representatives will be burdened with the task of attempting to halt the fast-stepping softballers of Johns park again Monday at Johns park.

The Johnnies are undefeated, and unless they are stopped within the very near future, they will roll right into the first half championship.

Show Improvement.

Nick Wagner's Liberties have won only one game and dropped two, but they have shown gradual improvement, and might be ready to take the number of the Johns park athletes Monday in the headline City Class A league game.

The Liberty team's only victory of the season was registered last week when it defeated Prospect park to climb out of a tie for the basement.

Johns park won over the Liberties by a one-run margin in the first game of the season.

The North and Prospect park teams will collide at North park in the other game. It will be necessary for the Richland county fish and game association club of North park to win to retain its grip on second place.

If North loses and Liberty wins, the latter will tie the former for the runner-up position. North can regain a tie for first place with a victory if Johns park loses.

Loses Garver.

North park's victory hopes hit a snag this week when Lefty Garver, crack left handed pitcher, suffered an injury to his pitching hand. It is doubtful whether he will be available anymore this year, according to reports.

Central Ohio League Tussle Expected To Draw Record Crowd at Fairground.

MANSFIELD'S American Legion club may find it impossible to win the first half championship of the Central Ohio semi-pro league because of a poor getaway, but it can still be a factor in the race.

The Legionnaires started out to spoil records last Sunday when they handed Newark its first defeat of the season, and they are offered another chance to put a crimp in the title hopes of a contender Sunday.

Meets Glassmen.

Manager Dewey Durant's team mets the Federal Glass of Columbus at the Fairground at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the Boosters' Day game postponed two weeks ago because of rain.

The Columbus team is tied with Newark for first place, and so the outcome of the game is particularly important to the visitors.

In an attempt to escape the same fate as Newark, the Glassmen are expected to start Les Fishbaugh on the mound Sunday. Fishbaugh is the former Columbus Red Bird hurler.

Mettles defeated the Legionnaires, 2 to 0, in the first meeting between the two clubs early this season. If it should happen that Fishbaugh does not start, Mettles will undoubtedly get the call.

The Columbus lineup includes a lineup of veteran performers, with Tommy Leonard, former Columbus Red Bird and Toledo Mud Hen outfielder, heading the cast.

Pitcher Doubtful.

Durant has not decided on his starting pitcher for Sunday's game, but announced that the rest of the lineup will remain intact, with Ed Chatlain and Ed Henrich making their home debut as Legionnaires.

Henrich has replaced Charley Baker at first and Chatlain is being used in the outfield.

The largest crowd of the season is expected to pack the Fairground for the special game for which a city-wide ticket campaign has been conducted.

Picard Still 'Hot,' Shoots 66 and 67

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., today continued to tear the Kenwood Country club apart as he maintained his lead in the $5,000 professional match play round-robin tournament. Picard, who established a new competitive course record of 66 Thursday, equaled that mark in one of his rounds yesterday and then fired a 67 in his other match.

The Hershey star defeated Frank Walsh of Chicago by one hole and Johnny Revolta by two in the first match yesterday and then finished four holes in front of Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and one in front of Gene Sarazen in the second match.

Flag Hopes Brighten As Humphries Wins

Trosky's Double With Bases Loaded Enables Tribe to Defeat Red Sox, 7 to 6.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—The pennant chances of the Cleveland Indians grew brighter here today after Johnny Humphries, rookie right-hander, came through with another fine mound performance and furnished further evidence that he can be counted upon to take his regular turn in the box.

Humphries scored a 7 to 6 triumph yesterday as the Indians defeated the Boston Red Sox. Coupled with the defeat of the New York Yankees, the victory enabled Cleveland to stretch its league lead to 4½ games.

Yields Six Hits.

Had Humphries not been the victim of several errors that do not show in the box score he would have gained a 7 to 2 decision. The 20-year-old right-hander gave the slugging Sox only six hits and issued but one base on balls.

Rogers Cramer was the only Boston player to make more than one hit at the expense of Humphries. The great Jimmy Foxx was blanked in four trips to the plate.

Boston combined two hits with a pair of errors in the first inning to score three runs. The Red Sox made another in the third and added single counters in the sixth and seventh.

Jim Bagby, jr., son of a former Indian star, started on the hill for the Red Sox. He was jerked when he developed a streak of wildness in the third inning. Archie McKain, a southpaw, then took up the burden and was charged with the defeat.

Cleveland scored twice in the second and once each in the fourth and sixth. A big three-run rally in the seventh then clinched the decision.

Lary Starts Rally.

Lary started the rally with a single. Campbell singled and Hale sacrificed. After Julius Solters popped out Earl Averill walked to fill the bases. Hal Trosky then doubled off the right field wall to plate all three runners.

Bob Feller was slated to hurl for the Indians in the second game of the series today with Fritz Ostermueller opposing him.

Giants Stake Title Hopes On Bob Seeds

Buy Veteran Outfielder to Bolster Faltering Attack.

By ANTHONY J. PUGLIESE

NEW YORK —(INS)— Aiming to bolster his spasmodic machine, Bill Terry today planned immediate use of Bob Seeds, his newly-acquired International league home run king, as the Giants sought their second straight triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Seeds, a 30-year-old slugging outfielder, already has had tryouts with five American league clubs, the latest being the New York Yankees, who sent Bob to their Newark farm.

Manager Terry became interested in Seeds, a burly right hand hitter, when Joe Moore suffered an injured ankle and Hank Leiber's batting fell off recently. Seeds, Playing last month against Buffalo hit four home runs in successive innings and added two singles for a perfect day. He further opened the eyes of baseballdom the following day by cracking out three more homers to shatter all existing records for round trippers.

Three of the four teams in The News-Journal Women's golf league were grouped in a tie for first place today after the second week of play.

The Liberty Shoes edged Marks' Market, 2 to 1, and Strome's Grocers won over the Bates Candies, 2 to 1, at Possum Run yesterday, with each having one postponed match.

Thelma Linster, who shot a record-breaking 75 last week again set the scoring with an 82 to defeat Alice Byrnes, 2 to 1. Patty Oberlander, shooting a 98 for the 18 holes, won the other match for the Grocers, winning over Helen Kann.

Harriett Roth added up 98 strokes to win the only match for the Bates Candies by defeating Reba Strome on an extra hole.

Elsie Staiger and Jeanette Eichen registered the victories for the Liberty Shoes. The latter scored a 95, the same as Lillian Marks, who counted the lone point for the Market. Lillian was extended to two extra holes by Vera Oberlander before winning.

Hi-Speeds Meet White Sox Of Cleveland At League Park At 3 P. M. Sunday.

EARL HERRICK'S Hi-Speeds will engage a Cleveland team managed by the famed Jesse Owens' brother at League park at 3 p. m. Sunday.

In addition to serving as playing manager, Buddy Owens holds down centerfield. While probably not as fast as his illustrious brother, Buddy covers a lot of ground in the garden, according to reports.

Among the other outstanding members of the club are Bill Smith, third baseman, who led the club in hitting last year. John Boone, who has averaged 4 strike outs per game, and Walter Ponder, a catcher, formerly played with the Birmingham Black Barons in the National Colored league.

The visitors' second baseman, Mack Alexander, is a former Golden Gloves boxing champion. Joe Hendree, an outfielder, is another outstanding performer.

The White Sox have won five out of six games this season, while the Hi-Speeds have won six out of eight. Petie Beer will be on the mound for the Mansfield club.

Mansfield Boxers Hang Up Victories

Clemens, Carbetta, Glover and Emerson Triumph On Amateur Outdoor Card at Friendly House.

By CHARLES MARTIN

FOUR of Mansfield's outstanding simon pure leather slingers walked off with honors in the annual Friendly House amateur outdoor boxing show staged at the settlement last night before a crowd estimated at 325.

Tommy Clemens, who recently won the J. A. C. bantamweight championship at the Y. M. C. A., turned in the most impressive performance by winning on a technical knockout over Eddie LeRoy of Marion in the third round.

The other Mansfielders numbered among the nine winners on the Parade of Champions' card were Paul Carbetta, 108, and Beauford Glover, 134, both Friendly House youngsters, and John Emerson, 121.

The five other winners were Dale Oyster, 180, of Ashland, who won on a technical knockout over Clair Greenwalt, 185, of Norwalk, in 36 seconds of the third round; Leo Smith, 118, of Ashland, technical knockout over Otis Scott, 120, of Marion, in one minute and 52 seconds of the third round; Young Shaffer, 140, of Norwalk, technical knockout over Don Matthews, 140, of Marion, in one minute and 16 seconds of the third; Melvin McKinley, 118, of Ashland, decision over Vern Green, 116, of Bellevue; Ducky Dever, 143, of Ashland, decision over Bulldog Veach, 141, of Mt. Vernon; Phil Ganni, 150, Crestline, decision over George Welton, 151, of Norwalk.

Defeats Dolce.

Carbetta, Marion and Galion N. C. O. champion, tangled with slender Frankie Dolce, 104, Crestline, and put on a thrilling last round rally to win the unanimous decision of the judges, Paul M. Eliot of Mansfield, Roy Styers of Mt. Vernon and Eddie Craven of Ashland.

Emerson took the verdict from Bert Nicholi of Norwalk and Glover eked out a close decision over Ray Howman of Ashland.

Young Clemens and LeRoy mixed it up plenty and after two rounds the battle was even, but Clemens came through with some fancy slugging in the final round and had his Marion opponent out on his feet. His seconds tossed in the towel after a minute and 15 seconds.

Dolce, dark-haired youngster, who won the fancy of Mansfield mitt fans in the J. A. C. tourney, displayed his usual clever boxing, but was unable to get through Carbetta's tight defense. The Crestline youth used his lightning like left with telling effect for a while and then Carbetta started turning on the steam to win going away.

Glover, who suffered the first defeat of his ring career by losing a decision to "Curley" Miller on the J. A. C. card, failed to live up to expectations in his fight last night.

He faced Ray Howman, towheaded Ashlander, and knew he had been in a fight before the gong ended the third round. Glover got off to a nice start in the first and second rounds, but ran into some real trouble in the final.

The opening round looked pretty even, with both lads tossing a lot of leather. Glover came out in the second and for a while it seemed as though he had Howman's number. The Friendly House boy landed several crashing rights and lefts and had the Ashland fighter groggy at the bell.

Finishes Strong.

But Howman put on a thrilling rally in the early minutes of the final stanza. Backing Glover to the ropes with some hefty rights, Howman came in fast to land two smashing lefts to the jaw that left Glover in a bad way. Howman was too tired to do any further damage before the bell, and the judges awarded Glover the decision amid cheers and boos.

Tommy Vassel won the balloon battle royal staged before the intermission. The six youngsters gave the fans a treat.

Ernie McKinley of Ashland, who won the flyweight championship in the J. A. C. tournament, did not appear on the card, but was introduced and received a nice round of applause.

Mike Wentz and John Villella were co-matchmakers for the card.

Kindness of Dizzy, Pepper Pays Dividends

CHICAGO — (UP) — A father's gratitude to two baseball players for the kindness they showed his son was reported by the Chicago Daily News today ready to pay off an estimated cash profit of $50,000 apiece to Jerome (Dizzy) Dean of the Chicago Cubs and Pepper Martin of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The News said that oil has been discovered on five acres of land in Sumner county, Kans., which was deeded to the two ball players three years ago by S. A. Murphy, Wichita, Kans., business man.

Four years ago Dean and Martin appeared in Wichita in a Carnival exhibition game. Murphy brought his small son to the park to see the two stars. The players gave the boy an autographed ball a "Pepper Martin" model baseball bat and introduced him to other members of the team. Later the incident almost was forgotten.

The following year Dean and Martin heard from Murphy again. He said he was giving them five acres of "prospective oil land.... out of gratitude for your kindness to my boy."

The deed to the land arrived last year after the two ball players again had seen the Murphys on an exhibition trip through Kansas. An application for a lease came with the deed from a major oil company.

In May of this year Murphy wrote to Dean that "drilling has started on your land...it looks like you and Pepper may have something. If the well comes in it should mean at least $50,000 apiece, maybe more, for the oil company is very much interested, and seems sure that oil is there."

In New York yesterday Dean received this wire: "Your well came in today. More power to you." The wire was signed by Murphy.

HEART ON HER SLEEVE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER IV

Very often that exciting week, Moleen thought of Jed and wondered where he might be. The day before the Fourth she told Mignon of their meeting, and of the night she went to sleep and stayed all night in his apartment.

Mignon could see nothing at all shocking in the story. She thought it was very romantic, and had a wild curiosity to meet Sir Galahad. That is what gave her the idea of making it a foursome. They could join Sunny Tucker at the Wayside Inn on Long Island, where his band was playing. If Moleen's date would go

Thee two girls spent almost the entire next afternoon trying to pick out the most becoming costume in Moleen's new wardrobe. They finally selected a deep rose informal dinner gown with a stunning little rose lace jacket and hat.

Moleen was smitten with the fear, after she was all dressed, that Jed might not be able to meet her in their doorway. Perhaps he'd had no good luck after all, or might have forgotten all about their date.

A little pale, Moleen rode down Broadway in the Laine limousine, with Ming, the Chinese chauffeur, in impeccable livery in front. It all seemed like a fantastic dream that she was riding in such grandeur to keep her date with Jed.

* * *

Fifteen minutes early, Jed leaned against the doorway and waited patiently. Since the morning they parted in front of his rooming house, Moleen had been almost constantly in his thoughts.

Romance was the farthest from the mountaineer's mind It was just that he was worried about what might have become of her. Did she really have a place to stay? He could not bear the thought of any one so young being alone in New York. From his own experience he knew what it meant to be without funds in a big city. But a man could manage somehow. A girl had a much more difficult time There were too many handicaps.

When the long limousine stopped, Jed glanced incuriously at the rose costumed girl in the back seat. Moleen watched him from the corner of her eye as Ming got out and opened the door for her.

She stepped out grandly with her nose in the air and walked to the doorway.

"Good evening," she said in her ritziest voice. "And how are all your folks?"

Jed hesitated

"Good evening, madam. I think you've mistaken me for someone else"

When Moleen burst out laughing and threw her arms around him, Jed stepped back in amazement

"Don't you know your own mascot?" Moleen's eyes danced "Or are you high-hatting me?"

"Moleen!" Jed sounded awed. "Is it you?"

"Of course it is, funny" She grabbed his hand. "Come, step into my limousine!"

Jed did not move A worried frown gathered between his eyes. He took her by the shoulder and looked down at her like a Dutch uncle.

"Moleen," he asked sternly, "what is this? Who's car is that? And where did you get those clothes?"

Moleen shook her long bob.

"I won t tell."

"You will. Or I won t go a step with you."

Moleen dropped her voice to a whisper.

"I robbed a bank. But don't you dare tell.

Jed said impatiently, "Don't be silly! Tell me the truth. You can't stand here making a fool of me"

Moleen could see he was deeply worried. So she decided to be serious.

"I have a wonderful job," she told him then. "This car belongs to my employer"

* * *

That did not relieve Jed's anxiety So in a few hurried words Moleen explained a little of what had happened. Enough to get Jed into the car. On the way up Broadway she cleared the mystery.

"Miss Laine is very anxious to meet you," Moleen said, clinging to his arm excitedly. "So we'll go there first—if you want to go. Then she has invited us to a party out on Long Island."

Jed would not have accepted if he hadn't wanted to look into the matter of Moleen's prosperity himself. He felt certain there must be a catch in it some place. It was too much like a Cinderella story.

"But I've been so busy talking about myself," Moleen said then penitently, "I've completely forgotten to ask you about what happened to you after we said goodbye."

"You brought me luck all right, Mascot. I walked two blocks and got a job running an elevator in an apartment house. The operator had just gotten sick. I walked in and asked for work and the manager asked me if I could run an elevator. I told him no, but I could certainly learn. Darned, if he didn't let me take a try at it. I've been there ever since. The pay won't make me wealthy but I've got a room in the basement."

"Oh, I'm so happy for you!" Moleen could have wept for joy at Jed's good fortune "My mother used to say, 'It's always darkest just before dawn.' I guess it's true Things had gotten just about as bad as they could for both of us."

"We'd sure hit bottom," Jed grinned. "But look at us now! Dog my cats, Mascot! If any one had told me you could look so beautiful' Ten days ago you looked like a little plucked sparrow"

"I've gained seven pounds." Moleen puffed out her cheeks. "But how could I help it? All I do is eat and sleep and try on clothes."

"'Nice Work If You Can Get It'," Jed hummed. He was beginning to shake his feeling of worry in the contagion of Moleen's happiness

"Well," he straightened his tie in front of the apartment house above which the Laine penthouse rose, "here's where I'd better put on my company manners, I suppose."

"Don't worry about Mignon," Moleen reassured him. "She's real as an old shoe. You'll love her."

Mignon held out her hand when they joined her in the library.

"So this is Sir Galahad!" she said, smiling. "I've been so anxious to meet you.'

"My curiosity has been considerably whetted about you." Jed's warm gray eyes studied the small blond girl that stood before him in trailing black net. "You don't look like Santa Claus. But from what Moleen tells me, must be some kin."

Mignon was charmed with the warmth of Jed's easy Southern manner and drawl. She motioned him to sit down.

"I've told Julia to fix canapes and something cool to drink before we go It'll be so late when we eat."

* * *

Before the end of five minutes Jed felt there was nothing to worry about so far as Moleen was concerned. Mignon was real as an old shoe. Moleen excused herself and went to her room to make sure her nose wasn't shiny, and to take another look at herself.

Mignon looked up from her drink.

"No doubt you're wondering why I've taken such an interest in your little friend."

"Not any more." Jed crossed his long legs and sat back easily. "You took an interest in her for the same reason I did, I reckon. Moleen is just the sort of kid that appeals to the mother or father in us."

"Right you are!" Mignon laughed

"Well," Jed said seriously, "I'm sure you'll never be sorry. I've seen the little lady only once before, but I'd stake my last nickel she'll never betray your trust."

"I feel the same way about her. What a dreadful life she must have had. Poor darling! I'd love so much to make a little of it up to her."

"You're very kind."

Mignon bit a canape, then sat up

"Now, tell me about yourself. We must find the right sort of job for you too—if you're going to join our gang"

Jed said quickly, "No, thank you, Miss Laine. I can't let you take me on too. I've got a job, thanks. Running an elevator. It'll do until I have better luck in the show business."

Mignon was pleasantly surprised at his refusing her offer.

"You're a baritone, and you play a banjo? Well, I'm sure your luck will change soon. I've a very definite feeling it will, and I'm really quite psychic."

She said it lightly, and Jed laughed.

"Maybe you've been messing around the stars."

"Numerology," Mignon smiled. "The magic influence of numbers, you know," she smiled. "I'll do you some of these days. I did Moleen's though and saw a lot of trouble. But my arithmetic always was pretty bad. Maybe I figured wrong."

"Let's hope so," said Moleen now standing in the doorway. "The next time you do mine, please use an adding machine."

She walked across the room, assuming a haughty pose.

"I've spent all this time just admiring me. Can't I just stay home, please, in front of the mirror, and let you two go to the Wayside Inn."

Mignon jumped up laughing.

"Of course' Come along, Jed! It's getting very late. If you'd like, Moleen, I'll have a mirror ceiling put in your room so you can admire yourself while you sleep"

"She wouldn't sleep," Jed grinned, "for fear she'd mess up that new hair job"

THEATER

"Holiday."

The two stars who rolled cash customers into the aisles in "Bringing Up Baby," are together again in "Holiday," the new screen version of Philip Barry's romantic comedy, which Ann Harding made a few years ago. This time it is Katherine Hepburn, who has temporarily—and happily — forsaken drama for roaring comedy, and Gary Grant, one of the top flight romantic comedy stars. The story is easily recalled — that of a penniless young man who becomes engaged to a girl of millions and a stuffy, elegant background. Into the picture comes a younger sister to show the young man the error of his ways. Doris Nolan is seen as Julia who was too concerned about what people would think, and Miss Hepburn as Linda, who didn't care a rap what they thought. Lew Ayers is the brother. Others are Henry Kolker, Edward Everett Horton, Binnie Barnes and Jean Dixon. It opens at the Ohio at midnight tonight

* * *

"Yellow Jack."

Sidney Howard's stage play, "Yellow Jack," gives Robert Montgomery another one of those happy-go-lucky roles with which he is identified He plays O'Hara, the soldier who accompanies the commission sent out from Washington to Cuba to find the cause of yellow fever after the war of 98 and who submits to the sting of the deadly mosquito in order to aid science Virginia Bruce as Miss Blake is a nurse with the commission. The cast is made up of well known names, such as Lewis Stone, Andy Devine, Henry Hull, Buddy Ebsen, Janet Beecher, and Jonathan Hale who plays Major General Leonard Wood. "Yellow Jack" is booked for the Madison for three days, starting Sunday.

* * *

"Mystery House."

Warner Brothers' publicized newcomer, Ann Sheridan, and Dick Purcell, are seen in "Mystery House," an interest-holding mystery yarn in which the debonair Lance O'Leary makes his appearance as a super sleuth. The character was first introduced in "The Patient In Room 18" sometime ago. The action takes place in a hunting lodge where a man has apparently died of heart failure, and only his daughter refuses to accept the verdict. A second murder follows before the crime is solved A re-issue of "Fury" with Spencer Tracy and Sylvia Sidney brings one of the most dramatic pictures in recent years is the second feature at the Majestic for Sunday and Monday. It is a story of circumstantial evidence and mob fury which executes an innocent man.

"Vogues of 1938."

Walter Wanger's first big musical picture was "Vogues of 1938" which has Warner Baxter and Joan Bennett for its number 1 attractions. Besides good music, including the hit song "That Old Feeling," there is a real story with it. Baxter is head of the House of Curzon, famous dress designers and Miss Bennett is New York's wealthiest heiress who doesn't want to marry the man her mother has chosen for her, and secures a job at the House of Curzon Helen Vinson is the extravagant wife of Bater and Mischa Auer is her giglo, a very humorous one. The "most photographed models in the world" appear in the picture The second feature is Jane Withers in "Checkers." The twin bill opens at the Ritz Sunday.

WINS $100 AS 'NO. 1 DRIVER'

Truck Operator Gets First Of 'Safety Legion' Awards For Lifting Child From Street.

E. S. Beekman, Mansfield R. D. 3, today stood out as Mansfield's No 1 driver, for safety and courtesy, and had received a "pat on the back' in the form of a $100 check in the first "safety Legion" award by Hi-Speed gasoline stations in Richland county.

The award is one of a series to be made by the Mansfield Hi-Speed company weekly in recognition of acts of safety and courteous driving reported by safety-minded watchers.

Beekman's act was recorded by an observer, unknown to him, on State street on June 15, according to Charles L. Hartenfels, Hi-Speend manager. He was selected by judges from a field of 50 candidates as the outstanding driver for that week.

The report sent to judges said that Beekman, meter service operator for the Ohio Public Service company, stopped his truck on State street long enough to lift a two-year-old child from the center of the street where the child was playing and place him on the sidewalk.

There were five children at play in the street at the time, the report said, and all of them, except the child, ran away as Beekman's truck approached, leaving the youngster alone in the center of the street.

Persons reporting acts of safety and courteous driving are eligible to receive a cash award in an amount similar to that received by the driver, Hi-Speed officials said.

In order to qualify, both driver and the person reporting the acts of safety or courteous driving must have cards distributed at Hi-Speed stations.

In the award made to Beekman, the person reporting his act did not qualify because he did not have a qualifying card.

Finds Courteous Driving Pays

SELL ANIMALS AT CUT RATES

Parisian Merchants Offer Leopards, Elephants.

PARIS — (UP) — Paris department stores have been in the animal business for five years now and their trade is so brisk they've enlarged their stock

Anyone can strool into one of the Paris department stores and walk out with a leopard for 5,300 francs, a baby-elephant for 25,000 francs, a kangaroo for 7,500 francs or a dromedary for 900 francs

The low price on dromedaries is due to the Paris exposition. When the North African exhibits closed up they left so many stranded on the market the price dropped to a new low.

Nippon Cafe Girl Rewarded, Fined For Honest Deed

TOKYO —(AP)— Being a good girl after being a bad girl turned out to be poor business for Sumiko Terada, beautiful Tyko cafe hostess.

Not long ago a patron came to the bar where Miss Terada entertains. He flourished a healthy roll, bought drinks for the house, presented her with a huge bouquet of flowers. Then he suggested she accompany him to a restaurant after the bar closed at midnight.

She did. There, she learned he had stolen the money. While he slept, she notified the police. They arrested the man, praised her for her civic virtue, gave her a reward, three yen.

Then, with typical Japanese justice, they fined her 10 yen for violating the ordinance that prohibits cafe girls from accompanying patrons after midnight.

Net loss—seven yen.

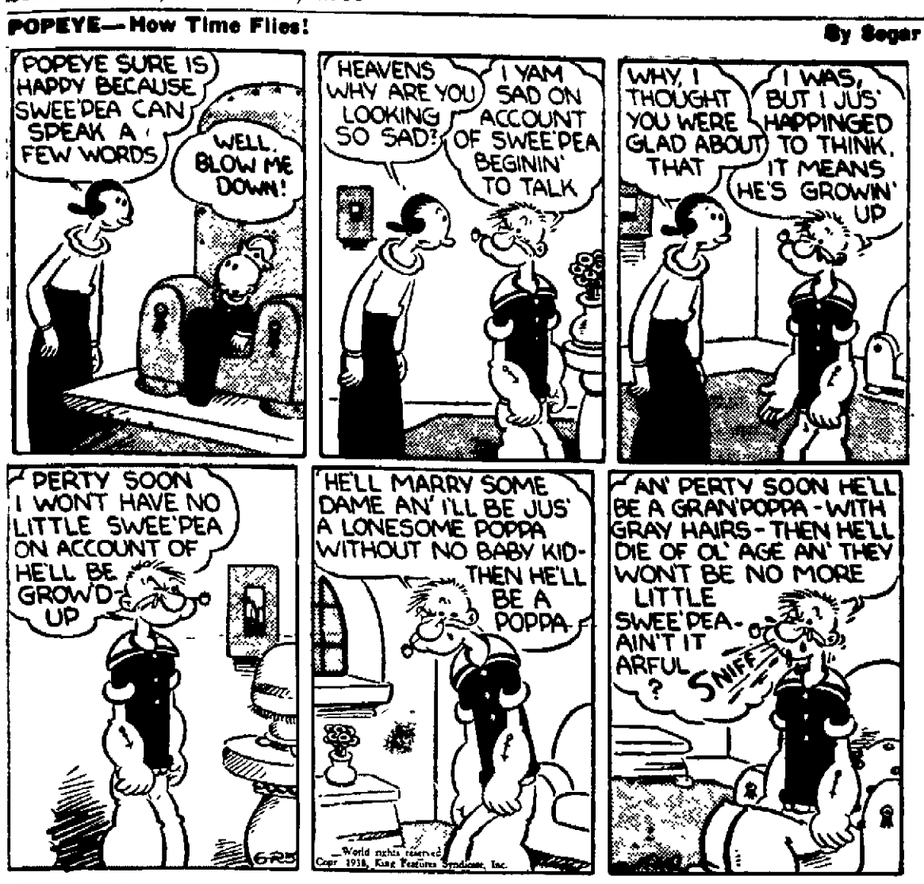
POPEYE—How Time Flies! By Segar



POPEYE SURE IS HAPPY BECAUSE SWEE'PEA CAN SPEAK A FEW WORDS
WELL, BLOW ME DOWN!
HEAVENS WHY ARE YOU LOOKING SO SAD?
I YAM SAD ON ACCOUNT OF SWEE'PEA BEGININ' TO TALK
WHY, I THOUGHT YOU WERE GLAD ABOUT THAT I WAS, BUT I JUS' HAPPINGED TO THINK, IT MEANS HE'S GROWIN' UP
PERTY SOON I WON'T HAVE NO LITTLE SWEE'PEA ON ACCOUNT OF HE'LL BE GROW'D UP
HE'LL MARRY SOME DAME AN' I'LL BE JUS' A LONESOME POPPA WITHOUT NO BABY KID- THEN HE'LL BE A POPPA
AN' PERTY SOON HE'LL BE A GRAN'POPPA - WITH GRAY HAIRS - THEN HE'LL DIE OF OL' AGE AN' THEY WON'T BE NO MORE LITTLE SWEE'PEA - AIN'T IT ARFUL ? SNIFF

PAM—June Night! By A. W. Brewerton

'NIGHT, PAM! SURE ENJOYED SEEING YOU AGAIN
GOOD-NIGHT, DAN! I HAD A GRAND TIME! SORRY I WAS LATE AND KEPT YOU WAITING!
OH, BOY - OH, BOY - OH, BOY! - I BELIEVE I'M MAKING PROGRESS! PAM WAS - WELL - DIFFERENT SOMEHOW, TONIGHT! SEEMED HAPPIER'N I'VE EVER SEEN HER; JUST BUBBLING OVER WITH JOY! HOPE IT WAS BEING WITH ME HAD SOMETHING TO DO WITH IT!
6-25
GOODNESS! DAN MUST HAVE THOUGHT I WAS SORT OF - CRAZY-LIKE, TONIGHT! I'M SO HAPPY I HARDLY KNOW WHAT I'M DOING! - FEEL LIKE DANCING AND SINGING ALL THE TIME!
- HAPPY JUST TO HAVE DAVID WELL, AGAIN - LIKE HIS OLD SELF! SO HAPPY - AND THANKFUL!
HAPPY PAM - - THOUGH DAVID HAS MADE NO PROFESSION OF HIS LOVE FOR HER - YET!

OPENING DIPS FAIL TO HALT MARKET CLIMB

Belated Buying Wave Centers On Steels, Motors In Sixth Straight Rally.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks swung upward at high speed today, after a slow profit selling dip at the opening, and initial losses of fractions to a point were converted into first advances running to 2 or more.

The swift right-about, bringing the sixth consecutive rallying session, came after a statement of the U. S. Steel Corp. asserting that no official of the company had given assurances that wage cuts would not follow yesterday's drastic slash in prices posted by the principal subsidiaries of the corporation.

The buying wave that hit the list around the start of the final hour centered on steels, motors, and other pivotal issues, and the pace was so fast that, for a time, the ticker tape fell 43 minutes behind floor dealings. There was a subsequent quiet interval and top marks were lowered somewhat near the close.

Bonds and commodities, hesitant on the get-away, did better with stocks. Grains, however, failed to make much progress.

The belated broadening of volume put transfers for the two hours at around 1,000,000 shares.

Prominent on the resumption of the drive were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Deere, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Texas Corp., Consolidated Edison, North American, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Westinghouse, DuPont, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Phillip Morris, Air Reduction, N. Y., Central and Union Pacific.

SCOUTS RETURN FROM CAMP TRIP

70 From Area Conclude Experimental Week at Alum Rocks.

Seventy Boy Scouts from the Johnny Appleseed area were to return home this afternoon from Alum Rocks, near Greer, O., where they attended the annual scout experimental camp in session there for the past week.

The camp opened last Monday at noon, and broke up at noon today. Nearly every troop in the area was represented.

Scouts received training in cooking, scout games, camp layout, nature study, pioneering and administration of overnight camping.

The camp leaders were Thomas Scott, Ralph Arlin, Richard Sowash, Fred Lavender, Mansfield scouts, and Floyd Dent, area scout executive, and D. D. Montoya, area field executive.

DEATH TAKES INFANT

Richard Daugherty, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Daugherty, Fifth avenue, died Friday in the General hospital. The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services were to be held at 3 p. m. today, with burial in the Mansfield cemetery.

President Claims Right To Intervene For 'Liberals' During Radio Talk.

net result had been "an important victory for the people of the United States—a lost battle which won a war."

Asserting that in one way or another the "real objectives" of his court message to congress had been attained, he added:

"The attitude of the supreme court towards constitutional questions is entirely changed. Its recent decisions are eloquent testimony of a willingness to collaborate with the two other branches of government to make democracy work."

Even though a few persons "are tired or frightened by the inescapable pace of this modern world," he commented at another point, government can not "take a holiday of a year, or a month or even a day" from its efforts "to meet continuing problems."

Turning to a discussion of politics near the conclusion of his 30-minute talk, Mr. Roosevelt drew a line between liberals and conservatives.

Recognize New Conditions.

He said the former recognize that "the new conditions throughout the world call for new remedies."

"Those of us in America who hold to this school of thought insist that these new remedies can be adopted and successfully maintained in this country under our present form of government if we use government as an instrument to provide these remedies," he continued. . . .

"The opposing or conservative school of thought, as a general proposition, does not recognize the need for government itself to step in and take action to meet these new problems."

In a statement which made some listeners think of charges which have been brought against Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J., the president said he was concerned about the attitude of candidates and their sponsors "with respect to the rights of American citizens to assemble peaceably and to express publicly their views and opinions on important social and economic issues."

"There can be no constitutional democracy in any community which denies to the individual his freedom to speak and worship as he wishes," he said. "The American people will not be deceived by anyone who attempts to suppress individual liberty under the pretense of patriotism."

No Names Mentioned.

Mr. Roosevelt mentioned no names in that connection, but many listeners recalled that Rep. O'Connell (D.-Mont.), Norman Thomas and others have denounced Hague in language very similar for denying them permits to speak in Jersey City.

The president turned over to the justice department charges from several organizations and individuals that Hague had violated civil liberties guaranteed by the constitution.

When he turned to discussion of the activities of the 75th congress, he said that although it "left many things undone," it had "achieved more for the future good of the country than any congress did between the end of the World war and the spring of 1933."

High on his list of the legislators' "more important" achievements, the president mentioned the farm and wage-hour bills and the resolution creating a committee to study monopoly.

Referring to "mistakes" he said had been made last year, the executive added that leaders of private enterprise, after pleading for a curtailment of government spending, "made the mistake of increasing their inventories too fast and setting many of their prices too high for their goods to sell."

"Some labor leaders, goaded by decades of oppression of labor, made the mistake of going too far," he added. "They asked employers not only to bargain with them but to put up with jurisdictional disputes at the same time.

"Government too made mistakes—mistakes of optimism in assuming that industry and labor would themselves make no mistakes—and government made a mistake of timing in not passing a farm bill or a wage and hour bill last year."

wrecking crews had hauled away the damaged cars and the whisky was transported to the garage under police guard.

One machine was demolished by the force of the impact which threw it aganist a parked car. Mrs. G. P. Rebold, Grand Island, Nebraska, the driver, and her 12-year-old son escaped with only minor injuries. Dr. Rebold, riding in the front seat, however was confined to his room at the hotel today with a back injury and a possible fracture of the right shoulder. He was treated at the hospital last night and then removed to his room.

Isadore Fishman, Bronx, N. Y., driver of the second car in line which was waiting for the light to change also was confined to his hotel room with a shoulder injury. The left side of his automobile was badly damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Johnson, of Chattanooga, Tenn., were in the other car when the truck struck the front end of the machine.

Fred Alacca, 275 Park avenue east reported to police that his car was damaged when struck by the Rebold car. He said it was parked across the street from his home.

William Sprunger, R. D. 4, Mansfield, testified that while he was en route from Ashland to Mansfield yesterday that Lawrence passed him and forced him off the road when he cut short in front of him on a three-lane highway.

Lawrence testified that he had stopped at a restaurant in Ashland and drank five ten-cent glasses of beer. He said he never "touched the stuff" he was hauling.

URGE SCHOOL HEAD'S OUSTER

Two County Board Members Blame Robinson In Fight Over Consolidation.

At a meeting last month, the county board voted to leave the Adario school open for another year after board members and parents in the district protested a movement to consolidate the high school with Union district, comprising Weller and Franklin townships.

Under the plan proposed by Superintendent Robinson, Jackson, Weller, Bloominggrove and Butler township high school pupils would be included in a single district, while grade pupils would be transported to the nearest larger schools with adequate building facilities.

The plan proposed a new high school building near the center of the four-township area to cost approximately $200,000.

The first actual step toward the proposed consolidation was taken recently by the Bloominggrove township school board which left the pupils in the eastern half of the township free to attend any school they choose.

Most of the high school pupils, however, indicated they would go to the Union school, thereby reducing the enrollment of the Adario school far below state requirements and threatening closing of that school.

The first grade charter of the Adario school was restored recently after the state department of education had revoked it because of inadequate equipment.

Observations on Married Life From Vantage Point Of an 18th Anniversary

—By JANE WILLIAMS

SOME Thoughts and a Bit of Philosophy on An 18th Wedding Anniversary: On June 25, 1920, if I had given a thought to it, this June 25, 1938, would have seemed an eon away, yet now that these years between have passed, I catch my breath at their speed. Why, they've actually winged by. The years ahead always seem interminably long; but in retrospect—how they rush!

There was a lot of advice that day. "Live your own life," said an older friend who had been married for several years. "Don't let any man take your character, your personality, your ambitions, and mold them to suit his own ideas. Because the ideas of men change with the years. What he thinks he wants now will bore him 18 or 20 years from now."

She was about 50 per cent right—but she's been divorced twice since then.

* * *

AND there was my grandmother, who had celebrated her 60th wedding anniversary. "Be a good wife, obey your husband," she said humbly, patiently. "The man must be the head of the family. Your Grandpa and I have lived through troubled years, but always we were glad we had each other. We've never seriously quarreled."

It was the truth. But you can't quarrel with your shadow, which bends with every wind that sways you. Grandmother had never done her own thinking; why, she'd never even bought her own clothes. Grandfather had raised her children—she only had them and worked for them and fed them. But until the day of her death she adored her stubborn, autocratic little head-man.

She believed that woman's lot was to stand humbly in her husband's shadow, to obey, to love, to submerge herself. But I, belonging to a new order of women, vowed that I would not purchase marital happiness at such a price.

* * *

MEN are selfish as the very devil," a neighbor said, bitterly. "And children are little better. You sacrifice your life for them, and in the end, what does one have to show for it? Your children leave you and forget you and your husband grows old and more selfish with the years."

But she had married one man to spite another. And all her life she saw selfishness in her children's eyes—but it wasn't theirs, it was only the reflection of her own.

* * *

I HAVEN'T any advice to give you that will actually help," my mother said, "but there are several things you might remember. One is that marriage is something of an annuity for life, and you get out of it pretty much what you put into it...Women who pose as martyrs to marriage are usually jackasses; believe me, it takes a man with a lot of patience and forbearance to put up with a woman's natural pettiness . . . Every time you feel like picking up and leaving—and there will be times like that—try to remember that your husband probably has felt the same way many times...A successful marriage isn't something that is handed you along with your wedding presents, it's something you work years to create. Any numbskull can make a mess of a marriage, but it takes a woman with tact, understanding, and creative ability to make a success of it."

* * *

JUDGE SILBERT, Cleveland's famous divorce judge, who hears 5,000 divorce petitions every year and manages with his understanding and patience to settle 1,200 of them peaceably before they ever reach his court, says that the great danger ages for marriage are the first two years, and again from 15 to 18 years.

It's difficult to understand the second period, if all the other years have been happy, but the first period is to be expected. It's a period of adjustments, of "growing pains," of secret resentment, of volatile emotions; of quarrels as sudden, violent, and as easily forgotten as April showers.

* * *

THE greatest single factor to a happy marriage is the ability of a man and woman to compromise graciously, without secretly feeling that you're being "tramped on."

After that, it's the little things that count; the ability of two people to laugh at the same things, to enjoy the same recreations.

The greatest single factor in tearing down marital happiness even though two people may continue to live together, is nagging from either of them. No woman, no matter how pretty, how good a home maker, can possibly hold a man's admiration and affection, if she constantly nags. A nag has neither charm nor glamor; and the only known cure for it is a good swift kick in the panties every time it starts. There isn't anything you can do about a nagging man.

* * *

MARRIAGE, as an institution, has its faults, but to date nothing better has been found to take its place in a civilized world. Its drawbacks are far outweighed by its advantages. In other words, taking it all in all, it's much nicer to share life with someone—Marjorie Hillis to the contrary.

Marriage is like a major operation—at first you're miserable, and then you begin to get used to it; in a little while you are on the mend, you begin to feel great, and in the long run you are better off than you've ever been.

And on your 18th wedding anniversary, you're pretty darned happy about the whole thing.

Italy Gets Bombing Threat From Loyalists

PLANS DRASTIC ACTION TO HALT AERIAL ATTACKS

Government Warns Countries From Which Bombers Come Will Be Held Liable.

BULLETIN

ROME—(U.P.)—Any attempt by the Spanish Loyalists to bomb Italian and German targets will be met with warfare, the influential Giornale d'Italia said today in commenting on the implied threat of the Loyalists to take reprisals against foreign nations for the Nationalist bombing of open cities.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Harassed by insurgent air raids which have taken uncounted civilian lives, the Spanish government at Barcelona today resorted to drastic action to halt bombing of open towns.

Barcelona, it was learned, warned both Britain and France that unless insurgent air raids on open towns cease, the government will consider severe reprisals, not against General Francisco Franco, but against points from which the raiders actually came.

This was interpreted in diplomatic quarters as a possible threat to send Spanish government bombers against Italian towns.

Broader Scope.

(Paris advices more flatly declared that the Spanish government threatened reprisals not only against insurgent towns, but also against cities of foreign countries responsible for bombardments in Spain.)

The warning was conveyed to the French ambassador at Barcelona by Spanish Foreign Minister Del Vayo. British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax was notified by the Spanish representative here.

Paris immediately notified London that France would express to Barcelona strong disapproval of any such action. Britain was expected to make a similar reply to the Spanish government.

The Spanish government's position, as outlined to both France and Brittain, is that Franco is unable to control the foreign airmen fighting for his insurgent forces.

Furthermore, Paris and London were informed, the Spanish government has no intention or desire to bomb Spanish people—even those in insurgent territory.

Therefore, Barcelona argued, reprisals against the insurgent air raids "must be carried out against those directly responsible."

Up and Down THE STREET

Mansfield Boy Scouts will not be spending much of their summer vacation in the city if they plan to attend the various activities planned for the remainder of the summer. At present some of the scouts are at the experimental camp at Alums Rocks. A number from the city will go to Marietta, July 13 to 17, to attend the regional scout jamboree, and the annual summer camp at Camp Avery Hand which begins July 18 and continues until Aug. 13 will attract another group.

Deputy sheriffs were skeptical yesterday when they were called to a farm home west of Mansfield to investigate a complaint that some boys were 'fishing" for ducks in a pond. They learned, however, that there was nothing false about the report. Disgusted with the luck they were having with fish, thre small boys turned to ducks swimming in the pond, and succeeded in landing two or thre of the birds which swallowed their baited hooks. The boys escaped with a scolding, but the officers didn't say what happened to the ducks.

* * *

Radio listeners yesterday probably mixed a couple giggles with gasps, caused by the heat, at a certain recorded program during the morning. The recording was one of hymns, and someone apparently got the wrong record. For over the loudspeaker came the announcement that the singer, complying with requests, would "sing as many Christmas hyms as he could," and wished some listener who had written in a "Merry Christmas." And that on the hottest day of the year!

* * *

It would seem that all of the relics of pioneer days would have come to light preceding the Northwest Territory celebration parade, but there is just a possibility that stuck away in some old barn in the county there may be the frame and body of a covered wagon, which could be brought "back to date" with a new top. The committee in charge of the Fourth of July celebration wants a covered wagon or an old-time light wagon that might be converted into a covered wagon by adding a top and asks that any "discoveries" be reported to Donald Cram at the Y. M. C. A.

CRACK FLYER CRASHES INTO CCC SPECIAL

Failure Of Engineer To Carry Out Orders Blamed For New Accident In Montana.

(By United Press)

ROUNDUP, Mont.—One person was killed and a score were injured today when the Olympian, crack flyer of the Milwaukee road, crashed headon with a special train carrying Civilian Conservation Corps enrollees.

It was the Olympian that went through a trestle near Miles City Sunday with a death toll of 53.

The wreck occurred at dawn at Ingomar, a way station 65 miles east of here.

The Olympian, crack limited running between Chicago and Seattle, was west bound. The special, east bound, was to have pulled onto a siding to permit the fast passenger train to pass.

The two front coaches on the special were telescoped, it was reported.

ENGINEER BLAMED

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— An official of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad said today that the headon collision near Ingomar, Mont., between the Olympian, fast passenger train, and a special train carrying CCC enrollees, was caused by "failure of the Olympian's engineer to follow orders."

"The engineer has had an excellent record," the spokesman said. "However, he had been scheduled to meet the special at the Ingomar station. For an unknown reason he went beyond the station to the point where the crash occurred.

"He has told his immediate superiors that he could not explain why he passed the station. Apparently he overlooked his orders."

According to advices the railroad received from the scene of the crash. Only one car of the passenger train was derailed. It did not overturn.

PLAYS SUNDAY

Accordion Band Concerts At North Lake Park Tomorrow.

The sixth season of Sunday evening concerts at North Lake park, under the sponsorship of the North Lake Park association, will open tomorrow evening with a concert by a 40-piece accordion band under the direction of Eugene Smart.

The band will use the newly constructed concrete band stand on the edge of the lake. Amplifiers will be used to carry the music to various parts of the park.

Throughout the season concerts will be presented by four musical organizations from Smart's studios, the accordion band, a marimba band, "The Serenaders," and a concert orchestra.

Featured as vocalist and announcer at all concerts will be Billy Michael. Others who will appear are Jack Spicer, "The Accordianettes," Edna Waddell and Maurice Stretch and Lawrence Chamberlain.

All concerts will begin at 8 p. m. Arrangements were made by A. R. Herring, president of the park association.

REUNIONS ARRANGED

SHELBY—The annual Briner, Miller, Nelson, James and Keller reunions will be held Sunday at Seltzer park.

ANALYZES CITY HEALTH GRADE

U. S. Public Health Official Points To Advances Made Here During 1937.

Mansfield and Richland county through the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce today had received an analysis of the grade that won national recognition for the community for the third successive year in the annual public health contest sponsored by the United States C. of C.

Dr. Carl E. Buck, field director for the American Public Health association, wrote the chamber and Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, commending them for the special advances made in public health during 1937.

"Neither the schedule nor the analysis presume to embrace all the activities of the health organizations but simply include the activities most common to public health work as a whole," he said.

He pointed out that the particular items that placed Mansfield and Richland county in the "C" classification with a grade of 60 to 74 per cent were the construction of two new sewage disposal plants, one in Mansfield and one at Bellville during 1937.

Dr. Buck also cited an enlarged sanitary program which included the protection of the water supply, construction of new pasteurizing plants, completion of the Liberty park municipal swimming pool, a dental hygiene program, the establishment of a recheck clinic for tuberculosis, addition to public health nursing staff, and the adoption of various other measures to safeguard the public's health.

Out of 1,000 possible points to be obtained in the grading, the community scored 719 on the various health schedules.

HEAD 'GRAFT HUNTER' PAYS CITY VISIT IN 'LONE WOLF' CAMPAIGN

Still blasting at the present state administration, with evidence uncovered by the senate graft hunting committee as his ammunition, James E. Metzenbaum, diminuitive Cleveland lawyer and candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, stopped in Mansfield yesterday.

It was a campaign visit, but a rather unusual one. Metzenbaum, who was counsel for the senate committee, is playing strictly a lone hand in his campaign. He pays little attention to party organizations. He has no campaign committee of his own. What literature he sends out, he sends out himself. He asks no campaign contributions.

He is interested solely in what he believes are the issues—and he has definite ideas as to what they are.

He's an easy man to interview—because he asks the questions and then supplies the answers.

He asked "What is the most important issue before citizens of the state today?" and he answered:

"Relief—and no one knows it any better than the people of Mansfield who are deeply concerned over the problem right now. But do you know that if the Davey administration had honestly handled the untold millions, collected from almost countless varieties of taxes, there would be enough to care for the relief problem here and all over the state? Instead, the millions have poured in a steady stream to political friends of the administration.

"How much do you think could have been saved in one item alone, that of coal for the reformatory? I'll give you an idea. Coal for the institution, as well as for all state institutions, is purchased through the purchasing department in Columbus, and the law provides that it be purchased after competitive bidding. The department failed to ask for a bid in three years; instead contracts were handed out to political henchmen who had never seen a coal mine nor a truck. They were 'brokers' and the state paid them $1.75 a ton for coal that sold at the mines for 80 cents. The waste in that item alone would have more than solved Mansfield's relief problem."

"What has happened to the state departments under Davey?" he asked. "One department after another has become honeycombed with the influence of the 'shakedown,' the 'commission,' the 'fee' and the 'percentage' men, while the taxpayers pay and pay—and get nothing. The state employes have been reduced to servitude: each of them has been compelled by the Davey High Command to pay out of his own earnings for the Davey campaign.

"August 9 will spell a new Independence Day for Ohio, and citizens will signal to the world that they are fed up with Daveyism and are going back to good government."

Food Runs Out as 1,350 Masons Go To Annual Picnic

For the first time in years there was not enough food to go around at the annual Mystic club picnic, as 1,350 Masons attended the event yesterday at Oak park, on the Wooster road, one of the largest crowds ever to attend the outing.

Although the food prepared for the picnic was almost enough to supply a young army, there was not enough for all of the Masons who attended the outing.

Everyone got something to eat, but the late comers did not get any potato salad or baked beans. They had to be satisfied with sandwiches.

W. G. Schwan, who was in charge of preparing the food, said the large amount of potato salad and baked beans prepared, did not last long. Used in the potato salad were 3½ bushels of potatoes, 30 dozens of eggs, and 5 dozen bunches of celery. Sixty pounds of beans and 30 pounds of bacon were used in the baked beans.

There were 102 loaves of bread used for sandwiches, and 18 pounds of coffee prepared. The Masons also consumed 125 cases of pop, 100 pounds of cheese, 30 gallons of cottage cheese, and 150 bunches of green onions.

GEN. JOHNSON:

Schmeling's Easy Defeat Leaves Hitler Little to Say of 'Aryan' Supremacy

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

NEW YORK CITY—Some visions stick in the mind like a midnight landscape suddenly and blindingly revealed by a flash of lightning. One minute after the machine-gun rapidity of the Louis-Schmeling shambles began, there was such a flash etching of that poor Nazi, numb against the ropes, eyes bemused, daubers down, utterly helpless, mentally absent, pitifully limp. It lasted a split second but it will stick with me always.

After the last Schmeling-Louis fight, Mr. Hitler's propagandists unloaded a lot of silly boasting stuff about its proof of white Aryan supremacy.

* * *

There is no such thing as an Aryan race. There was a Nordic race of tall, blue-eyed, long-headed savages, like the Vikings but Mr. Schmeling doesn't belong to it nor do any of Herr Hitler's people. Racially Mr. Hitler's gladiator is something less over the edge of Europe from the Mongol invasion of Ghengis Khan or the Huns of Attila.

The piteous flash I got of Schmeling wrecked and out on his feet, was vivid disproof of this nonsense about Aryan supremacy.

* * *

The average of white intelligence is above the average of black intelligence probably because the white race is several thousand years further away from the jungle. For the same reason, the average of white physical equipment is lower.

If the black men had an equal opportunity to compete in athletics, there might not be any white champions at all. Certainly there would be fewer on a percentage basis. This is proved in the army whenever sports field and track events are opened to both races on an equal basis—which isn't often.

* * *

As officer in charge of athletics in Pershing's punitive expedition I once conducted an all-sports field day in Mexico. There were three white regiments and two colored ones. As I recall, the Negroes took all events except one second in the 100-yard dash. My enlisted assistant observed: "Lieutenant, they're just too damned physical for us."

The best place to look for a man to lick Joe Louis is in the black and not the white race. It is nothing for us to weep about. These colored boys are Americans—a whole lot more distinctly so than more recently arrived citizens of say, the Schmeling type. These should be just as much pride in their progress and success as in the triumph of any other American.

PASTOR OPENS SERMON SERIES ON 'U. S. ISMS'

Rev. Swoyer To Preach First Sunday Evening; All-Girl Orchestra To Play.

Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, will begin a series of seven sermons on the general theme, "Strange 'Isms' of America, Compared With The Truth Revealed in God's Word" at the 7:30 p. m. service Sunday.

For his first sermon, Rev. Swoyer will speak on the subject, "Is Jesus Christ Sufficient For Today?"

Other sermons in the series are: July 3, "A King Who Consulted a Medium;" July 10, "The Problem of Sin and Suffering;" July 17, "The Wicked and the After Life;" July 24, sermon by Rev. Milton P. Engelhardt, assistant pastor; July 31, "The Evil of Atheism;" Aug. 7, "Buchmanism and True Sanctification;" Aug. 14, "Do We, God or the Stars Decide Our Destiny?;" Aug. 21, 28 and Sept 4, sermons will be delivered by Rev. Engelhardt.

Plays Five Numbers.

A program by the Mansfield all-girl orchestra, directed by Will Kurt, will be presented during the evening service.

The orchestra will present five numbers. They are: "In the Garden of Tomorrow," by Deppen; "March of the Tin Soldiers," by Pierne; "I Love You Truly," by Bond, with a vocal solo by Margie Swigart; "Sweet and Low," by Barnby, and "In a Monastery Garden," by Ketelbey.

Special numbers during the evening will be a piano solo by Genevieve Howell, "Coppelia," by Delives, and for the offertory, Thelma Southward will play as a violin solo, "The Holy City," by Adams.

18-INCH LEMON

Colorado Woman Grows One That Made 8 Pies.

COLORADO SPRINGS —(AP)— The lemon is hardly native to the Pikes Peak country but Mrs. R. S. Niswanger has just completed her usual "lemon harvest." She plucked a lemon 18 inches in circumference—enough for three pies—from the lemon tree that grows in winter within her house and in the summer outside in her garden. The tree is potted and bears only one gigantic lemon at a time.

Brazil expects to produce 2,200,000 bags of cocoa this year.

SERMON TOPIC

'Christian Science' Subject of Scientist Lesson Sunday.

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

The Golden Text is: "The ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away" (Isaiah 35:10.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then he called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils; and to cure diseases . . And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick" (Luke 9:1, 2.)

TELLS OF CAMP

St. Paul Member To Discuss Annual Synod Outing.

A description of the Lutheran Boys' Camp of the Synod of Ohio will be given by Harold Loesch during the Sunday school hour at 9 a. m. Sunday at St. Paul Lutheran church.

Doesch will speak on "Lutheran Boys and Girls Go To Camp." The camp will be conducted near Marblehead on Lake Erie, July 11 to 25.

During the morning service at 10 a. m. Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor, will preach on the subject, "When There is a Fellowship of the Spirit."

The Missionary society of the church will meet at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the church parlors. Miss Margaret Beilstein and Mrs. Effie Dupre will be the hostesses. Mrs. William Bolley, president, will give the topic.

ITALIAN PICNIC PLANS ARRANGED

Program For Outing Aug. 7 Includes Dance, Games, Contests.

A dance during the late afternoon and early evening, athletic contests and games will be included in the program for the 16th annual picnic of the Flower of Italy Benevolent society, Aug. 7, at G. B. U. park, Joseph Letizia, general chairman, announced today.

Plans for the picnic were arranged at a meeting of the committee of 22 members in charge of the event. John Villella is in charge of the sports events, and Michael Augustine and Joseph Soprano will plan the games.

Free bus transportation to the park from Mansfield, five miles north of the city, will be provided.

HEARS FIRST OF LAND SUITS

Jury To Be Impaneled Monday To Determine Value Of 70 Acres In Flood District.

The first of a series of suits to determine the value of land appropriated by the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district in the Charles Mill dam section will open Monday before a jury in common pleas court.

Involved in the suit are 70 acres of an 86-acre farm in Mifflin township owned by Samuel Harlan.

The conservancy district filed action asking that a jury determine the value of the land after Harlan appealed a previous appraisal by the conservancy board.

After the jury is impaneled Monday morning the members will view the disputed property, with testimony due to begin Monday afternoon.

Atty. John C. O'Donnell represents the conservancy board and Atty. William F. Black is counsel for Harlan.

Nearly a dozen suits against property owners in the eastern half of the county have been filed by the conservancy district. One was settled recently out of court.

Judge Walter J. Mourgey of Wooster has been assigned to hear the case because Judge C. H. Huston is a member of the conservancy board.

ENROLL AT O. U.

Others from the county attending the summer session are Wilma Long and Nellie H. Olin, Bellville, Esther Hamilton, Plymouth, and Paul Wilcox, Shelby.

BREAK RECORD

Soviet Women Claim Mark for Seaplane Event.

MOSCOW —(AP)— A world seaplane broken-line distance record for members of their sex is claimed by three Soviet women. Paulina Osipenko, who is a lieutenant in the army air force, with Vera Lomaka and Marina Raskova, flew 1,085 miles in nine hours, 32 minutes over a course, Sevastopol, Epatoria, Ochakoff-Sevastopol, on the Black sea coast.

Cotton has supplanted coffee as Brazil's chief export.

The Golden Text

Mark 16:20—"And they went forth and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them."

ASKS SALE OF 3 PROPERTIES

County Treasurer Files Suits To Collect Delinquent Taxes.

Foreclosure suits to collect delinquent taxes on three properties in Springfield and Madison townships had been filed in common pleas court today by County Treasurer John E. Kolb.

Gerald Aungst and others are named defendants in an action for $100 in back taxes due on a 1.58-acre plat in Springfield township.

In the other suit, the county seeks $29 on two lots in Madison township, owned by B. T. Duffey and others.

Both actions were filed for the treasurer by Atty. Marshall C. Moore, special assistant prosecutor.

WOOSTER PREXY FILLS PULPIT

Dr. Wishart Speaks Tomorrow at First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Charles F. Wishart, president of Wooster college, will fill the pulpit Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church in the absence of Rev. David N. Roller, pastor.

The church service will begin at 10:30 a. m. Music during the service will include two organ selections, "Festive March," by Blackmore, "Ariso in A," by Bach, played by Mrs. A. L. Twitchell, and the senior choir under the direction of Mrs. C. O. Anglin, singing, "Ho Everyone That Thirsteth," by MacFarlane.

For the offertory Paul Watts will sing as a solo, "My Prayer," by Heuerter.

RATE CONTINUES

Lower Interest on Land Bank Loans In Effect Until 1940.

The reduced interest rates on Federal Land bank loans will be in effect until July 1, 1940, as the result of recent federal legislation, Vance Clever, secretary-treasurer of the Richland County National Farm Loan association, said today.

The reduced rate on loans through the local association is 3½ per cent, while the rate on land bank commissioner loans is 4 per cent. Both rates will be in effect for interest installments prior to July 1, 1940.

"The temporary interest reduction does not change the contract interest rate, the rate written in the mortgage at the time the loan was made," Clever said.

Farmers in the Mansfield area now have 289 first mortgage loans from the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, made through the local farm loan association, he added.

TRUCK CRUSHES SHEEP

EVANSTON, Wyo. — (AP) — Rounding a curve on a transcontinental highway near here, a huge transport truck tore into a band of several hundred sheep. Before it could stop 80 of the animals were killed. The owner of the sheep, who was herding them down the road when the accident occurred, estimated the damage at $600.

One of the first unhappy moments for the June bride is when she finds that an unsliced loaf of bread has been delivered with the grocery order.

In Praise of Democracy.

WHAT might be styled a revival campaign for democracy is planned by a recently formed non-partisan organization to be known as "National Rededication." The name seems a little awkward, but the purpose is excellent.

"The only answer to militant autocracy is a democracy informed, united, revitalized and aflame," says the acting director of the group.

We have the democracy, but there have been times lately when it has not seemed so well informed, united and vital as it might. It has been beset by severe economic troubles, by the lure of foreign ideologies, by prejudices not suited to traditional American ideals of political freedom. Perhaps such a movement as this one of national rededication may have value.

Better Chance for Babies.

ONE quite good way of measuring the progress of civilization is by the decline in the babies' death rate. By this standard we have been doing rather well.

In New York City, which is not exactly typical but will serve as an illustration, thirty years ago one baby out of every eight died before it was one year old. Twenty years ago the rate had declined to one in ten. Six years ago it was only one in eighteen. Now it is a little less than that, in spite of the depression and its unhealthful consequences.

In short, babies in America today have more than twice the chance of survival that they had a generation ago, and one-third better chance than they had at the beginning of the business depression.

This progress comes through better medical knowledge, better parental care and better food, with special emphasis on good milk.

Bogged Down In China.

THE yellow flood pours on through the interior of China, spreading and deepening. And this is no transient flood, such as we have in the valleys of the Ohio or Mississippi, destined to run off in a week or two. China is not so well adapted to drainage as our continent, and the weather conditions are different. The rains are expected to continue all summer.

So the invading Japanese are stopped again, this time by nature—with some strategic help, no doubt, from the Chinese, in the way of cutting dikes where it will do them the most good by doing the invaders the most damage. It is a bitter sacrifice, involving the death of many thousand Chinese by drowning and starvation but apparently the people, with their new patriotism, are ready to pay the price.

Vital Trade Pact.

THE TRADE AGREEMENT between the United States and England is anxiously awaited in many places. A newspaper woman who was in Europe when the negotiations between London and Washington began, found in the small countries she visited "a general feeling that only this agreement could set the currents of trade moving."

> "It is difficult to exaggerate the desperate hopes it inspired," she writes. "All the states struggling to maintain a free economy, struggling to defend the normal against the abnormal, the twentieth century against feudalism, waited in suspense for this sign of co-operation."

A recent debate in the British parliament was devoted to the same subject, with both the government and the opposition urging quick action on the proposed trade agreement. The matter proves to be more difficult than was anticipated. Not only do selfish interests on both sides delay it, but the totalitarian states that have gone in for complete self-sufficiency stand in the way of the plan's success. Trade agreements between two countries or groups of countries cannot work well in this modern world so long as there are powerful hold-outs among the other nations. The Scandinavian countries have learned this. Yet there is great need that England and America succeed.

Saluting the Flag.

A FEDERAL JUDGE in Philadelphia has declared unconstitutional the school board regulation under which a boy and girl were expelled from school two and a half years ago because religious scruples forbade their saluting the American flag.

To most Americans it seems ridiculous to regard a salute to the flag as a form of idolatry, but that is the view of the religious sect to which the families of these children belong. That being so, it is more truly American to permit them to hold such views than to punish them by depriving them of their right to public school education.

The oath of loyalty to the constitution and the salute to the flag have their proper places in American life. When they are made important issues in themselves, and given disproportionate emphasis, they lose much of their significance and beauty.

Just Like Other Hands.

A YOUNG Viennese beauty operator has come to the United States to study hair-dressing, because "American styles and methods are so much more advanced than anything in Europe." That is a pleasant compliment, but a reporter who interviewed her was more interested in the fact that the young lady had many royal notables among her customers in Vienna.

Who were they? The Duke and Duchess of Windsor and the former King Alfonso were three of them. Wasn't she thrilled taking care of such hands?

"What is there to be excited about?" she asks. "Their hands are just like ours."

It is said that restoration of sanity would prevent killing of innocent men, women and children in war—but wouldn't world-wide sanity also prevent war?

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

MEN HAVE despaired even more in the last year than during the World war or the last depression.

It has seemed as if civilization were crashing, as if the best thing to do were to die, in order to shut out the horrors and the misery.

A few liberal figures have stood out; but all in all black reaction seemed to have gained control of the world.

And there has seemed to be no end to this reaction.

But all this has occurred previously in the world's history. Reaction and tyrants have been overthrown, the few brave figures have become symbols, and certain hard-fought victories they have won have become landmarks in man's slow progress upward.

This present period causes one to turn to these words of Ralph Waldo Emerson:

"Life is in short cycles or periods; we are quickly tired, but we have rapid rallies. A man is spent by his work, starved, prostrate; he will not lift his hand to save his life; he can never think more. He sinks into deep sleep and wakes with renewed youth, with hope, courage, fertile in resources, and keen for daring adventure."

* * *

YOUTH STEPS UP.

Youth growing up in this age is not so much bewildered by it. Youth will meet its problems.

It is only because tired minds are trying to solve our problems that we find no solution. The old formulas will not work.

Yet old men, middleaged men, may be youthful in thought. With their experience and their fresh thought they may be able to lead the fresh young minds on.

But those whose minds are stale, this age spells doom for them. And it ought to.

* * *

THOUGHT NOT DEAD.

In an age of violence, some men moan that thought is forever dead. Yet some of the greatest works of man have been produced in ages of violence.

Thought lives apart.

"The intellectual man lives in perpetual victory," said Emerson. "As certainly as water falls in rain on the tops of mountains and runs down into valleys, plains and pits, so does thought fall first on the best minds, and run down, from class to class, until it reaches the masses, and works revolutions."

* * *

PROGRESS NOT BEGUN.

Henry Ford, nearing his 75th birthday, says we have not yet seen real progress. (Perhaps the greatest progress will be in regard to man's labor, concerning which Mr. Ford has not had the views of liberal prophets).

Looking back, a century hence, this undoubtedly will appear a dark, drab age—an age in which most of our remarks and alarums will seem foolish, and our aggressions and hates and intolerances horrible and unbelievable.

The world will become better not worse. One ought not pray for death, but for life, to vision the onward march of this vast transformation!

Timely Editorial

Church Marriages Best.

Science has now come to the defense of the "eugenic worth" of formal weddings. There are fewer divorces among couples so married than among those not so united in marriage, according to Dr. Paul Popence speaking at a gathering of the Eugenics Research Association.

Here, of course, is the effect of the attitude of the churches, their creeds and their ministers. Some churches forbid divorces. Others hold that only infidelity is a proper reason for separation. Still others refuse to remarry divorced persons. The church in general believes in the time-honored injunction that "whom God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." And around all marriages performed by ministers is the aura of religion and the sacredness of a union performed under the protection and sanction of the church.—Ohio State Journal.

I'll Teach Them All They Ought to Know

Upturn May Avert Special Session

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The betting is about 2-to-1 on an extra session of congress, beginning some time in September.

The country undoubtedly thanked its stars when the lawmakers adjourned.

President Roosevelt undoubtedly thanked his, too. The last session was not an overly manageable one, from the executive mansion's standpoint. Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats, combined, blocked a good bit of legislation that the White House was vitally interested in and passed a tax law that was unsatisfactory to No. 16 Pennsylvania avenue in certain important particulars.

Moreover some of the pro-New Deal solons, toward the session's end, were becoming presidentially troublesome. These were the inflationists. They are New Dealers all right, but they want to cheapen money; in other words, too boost prices. They are folk who profit from sky-shooting prices, but they are severe on others, on fixed incomes, like salaries, who see their living costs sailing upward, but who must wait quite a while before their stipends are likely to increase. "F. D." is not altogether an anti-inflationist, but he objects to it at the present juncture, and probably he objects to as much of it as the ultra-inflationists desire. It was greatly to his advantage to get these "ultras" home before they had time to go completely on the rampage.

The congressmen also were in a furious rush to get back to their various bailiwicks, to attend to their renomination and re-election campaigns.

Accordingly, all hands were crazy for adjournment.

Why, then, talk of an extra session?

* * *

SUPPOSE—

Well, just now the country surely does not care for one.

Business has looked forward to adjournment as likely to be the signal for speedy economic recovery. If recovery does follow quickly, there will not, indeed, be a call for an extra session. Everything, in that case, will be lovely for the administration, for the country, for New Dealerishness in general—for everyone except the Republicans and for such anti-New Deal Democrats as have been too hopelessly "anti."

But suppose there is not an immediate revival.

Suppose, instead, two or three big railroad companies lapse into receiverships. Suppose a number of huge investors in these lines' securities begin to lament, "Gosh! Look what's liable to happen to around 25 per cent of our assets!"

Why, in that event the country naturally is certain to yell to congress to get to Washington in jig-time to do something about it.

* * *

NOT EAGER FOR IT

The average congressman (representative or expiring senator) will not want to come.

He will wish, in the first place, to be at home, electioneering.

In the second place, he will not enjoy being in Washington, forced to vote, very conspicuously, upon pending issues.

That is to say, the average politician will not like it. However, that is immaterial. If called by the president into special session, he will have to do it, like it or not.

* * *

SEPTEMBER?

Now, as to the administration?

This administration has a number of policies that it honestly seeks to put across—not as party measures but because it really believes in them.

It has not had a congressional show-down, for the reason that it is a New Deal Democratic administration with many anti-New Deal Democrats (not counting balance-of-power Republicans) against it.

By an extra-congressional session, just before the coming election (session, with its test votes in September and October, and its election in November), it can put its respective friends and enemies on the spot.

There is talk of an extra session in November.

That is absurd.

If an extra congressional sessional season is called, it will be in September, when it will have some political sense.

Listen, World!

Face the Fire!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE SHACK stood on the edge of the desert.

Above the rickety shake roof, across the sun-bleached earth, an old "Chinese Locust" poured its cooling shade . . . one pool of dark blue shadow in one hundred miles of blaze. Plodding home from the mine, eyes blinded by heat, ragged shirt and spiked boots ringed with sweat, I would dive into that coolness—tear open my collar, let it flood my flesh.

Others would come, staggering out of the glare—reaching out their hands to the darkness. We would stand there, not speaking . . . not thinking . . .

It saved us—that tree. And often I had tried to raise others from its seeds. They were strange seeds, round and hard as rock, the size of a large pea. But I could not mage them sprout. No matter how carefully I tended them, they would not sprout.

Then, one day there was a fire in a pile of rubbish and, after the fire, the year's first meager sprinkling of rain. A week after, I passed the spot . . . and stood staring. There, thrusting lustily, lay hundreds of sprouting seeds. The fire had cracked them. Once released, life leaped on its way.

I had seen plant life begin in many ways, but never before had I seen it start like that. Born by fire!

And, once again, I thought of the strangeness of life . . .

How stupid we are to think that a successful existence should be an easy and pleasant affair. Real life is never pleasant or easy. Growth is always difficult and painful — often dangerous. It takes fire or flood, heart-break, humiliation or loss, to crack us all . . . to set us all free on a new and wider trail.

"He who would save his life must lose it."

Life isn't static. A normal life never stays put. It is always changing . . . passing through a constant succession of deaths and births. You cannot be something new until something old has died. You cannot go ahead without leaving something behind you. You cannot leap forward without breaking the old shell.

The only completely safe people are dead people.

A growing person is a moving person . . . a discontented person . . . a restless, harried, experimental, uncertain and unsafe person. If you find a person who is completely contented with his or her present lot . . . who desires no change . . . runs no risks . . . makes no experiments . . . you may be sure that you are looking at A PARTLY DEAD PERSON.

Look back at your life . . . at those periods in your life which were most fruitful . . . during which you learned most, developed most. Were they the calm periods of your life? Did they come when everything was going smoothly . . . when you were "having the breaks?"

Or did you get most out of life when the going was rough, and pickings were lean?

The answer's plain—YOU GOT THE MOST WHEN YOU GAVE MOST. YOU WON MOST WHEN YOU RISKED MOST.

"He who would save his life must lose it."

Don't fear change—seek it. Don't dread failure—invite it. Don't shudder at death—ACCEPT IT AS YOUR HIGHEST OPPORTUNITY . . . THE INEVITABLE PRELUDE TO BIRTH!

When I tended the seeds, nothing happened.

When the fire broke them, life leaped!

DARE TO FACE THE FIRE!

What's Happened?

A Week-End Summary of Current Events.

A MAN who tried to get 50 passport blanks by posing as an "undersecretary of state" was arrested in New York last February. Then a spy story, that seemed more silly than serious at first, began to unfold.

A hairdresser on a German ship, a soldier and an airplane factory mechanic were arrested. A prosperous New York doctor and a mechanic dodged subpoenas and fled to Germany.

Leon G. Turrou, G-man who worked on the Lindbergh kidnaping and other celebrated cases, put in 16 hours a day for three and a half months. This week he resigned, his job finished.

Eighteen persons, including Berlin officials, had been indicted for conspiracy and espionage. Theft of plans for a pursuit plane and an army and navy code book was charged.

The 'Why' of Spying.

State department officials had been consulted before the indictments were returned, but Secretary Hull said this week he was leaving the whole affair to the department of justice.

A German foreign office spokesman declared: "It is not so much a case of spies caught as spies imagined."

Only four persons were in custody. They were: Johanna Hoffman, hairdresser, who doesn't speak English; Guenther G. Rumrich, ex-sergeant in the U. S. army; Erich Glaser, private stationed at Mitchel Field, and Otto H. Voss, mechanic. All four pleaded that they were innocent.

AP Aviation Editor Devon Francis, meanwhile, listed some of the questions spies might have been assigned to answer: How does the U. S. plan to operate planes without propellors? How are planes weighing several hundred thousand pounds to be launched? What sort of airplane engine would be as powerful as a steam locomotive? And what kind of equipment enables U. S. airmen to hit a target from an altitude of four miles?

International Issues.

The spy indictments came when relations between the U. S. and Germany were not good:

(1) Believing a country that grabs another country should take "the burdens with the benefits," America wanted Germany to assume Austria's debts.

(2) Peace pleas by American statesmen were considered "one-sided" in Germany.

(3) Eye-witness accounts, published in America and other lands, of the smear campaign against Jews in Germany annoyed Nazis.

(4) Uncle Sam objected to Nazi decrees affecting American Jews' property in Germany which, it was generally believed, were the first steps toward expropriation.

On the other hand: (1) A German delegation began negotiations with Britain last Wednesday on the Austrian debt question. (2) The anti-Semitic decrees affecting foreigners were modified this week.

Government

Economic Rainbow?

President Roosevelt told newsmen: "There have been a few raindrops . . . possibly they will be followed with a much-needed shower." And Commerce Secretary Roper asserted: "Economic skies are definitely clearing."

They meant the same thing—that business is not as bad as it has been painted. The 1938 national income, previously estimated at $55,000,000,000, was estimated this week at $60,000,000,000 by the commerce department.

Congress had flown. Wall Street had perked up. And when the president signed the $3,750,000,000 lend-spend bill, PWA and other government agencies immediately began pouring out millions to irrigate many fields of business.

And in the hope of getting some of the banks' idle millions to work, too, heads of the five federal agencies that govern banks agreed on uniform, modified bank examination rules.

* * *

Empire State Battle.

The death of New York's Democratic Sen. Royal S. Copeland, last week-end, thrust New York state into the foreground of 1938 political speculation. It meant New York will elect two U. S. senators this fall.

New York is the president's home state. Copeland fought many of the president's policies. New York's other senator, Robert F. Wagner, has been one of the New Deal's staunchest supporters.

Two years ago Gov. Herbert H. Lehman decided to retire, but New Dealers drafted him to run again. Last year Lehman fought the president's supreme court bill. This year he has announced he is willing to run for the senate.

And the minute the governor tossed his hat into the senatorial ring, Attorney General John J. Bennett, jr., leaped into the race for governor.

* * *

Townsend's Prescription.

The Townsend plan calls for a 2 per cent tax on all business transactions for profit. It would meet the cost of government and put everyone over 65 on the federal payroll. 71-year-old Dr. Francis E. Townsend told an audience of 20,000 at the rally that opened the Townsendites' convention this week in Los Angeles.

"Our program contains the essential ingredients of business success," he said. "We will carry the nation by 1940."

At Home

Commentator Kennedy.

Joseph P. Kennedy, U. S. ambassador to England, returned Monday to report to President Roosevlt on economic affairs. To ship reporters, he reported on (1) politics—he is not seeking the Democratic presidential nomination; (2) business—"it looks as though we have cried ourselves out now"; (3) gas masks—the fact American children are not being taught to wear them shows "how fortunate we are;" and (4) knee breeches—his refusal to wear them was not because of his bow legs.

History Review.

Today's two wars kill civilians by hundreds, but only one noncombatant died in the bloodiest battle ever fought on U. S. soil. Jenny Wade was baking bread in her kitchen at Gettysburg, Pa., 75 years ago when struck by a stray minny ball during the fighting which turned the tide toward Union victory. For the anniversary of Gettysburg, survivors from both sides will march together there this coming week.

Settled for $668,000.

Before Andrew Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, died last year, he had been accused—and cleared—of trying to defraud the government. This week the government and his estate agreed to a $668,000 settlement of this four-year-old, $3,000,000, income-tax argument.

Church News.

In 1881 doctrinal differences parted the American Lutheran church from what is now the Evangelical Synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states. In St. Louis this week for the 100th anniversary of the Evangelical Synod, 10,000 Lutherans from every U. S. state and many foreign lands considered steps toward closing the 57-year-old breach.

The Little Minister.

Rev. Charles E. Jaynes, jr., 8-years old and three feet high, performed a marriage ceremony at the Four Square Gospel church in Cleveland. "Come around tonight," he told the couple afterwards. "You'll find the sermon interesting. It's on the ten wives and the five foolish virgins."

Abroad

Danger: Men Warring.

Japan warned Monday that the war in China would be extended over a vast area and advised foreigners to look out. Tokyo newspapers later said Japan might even declare war, but officials called that report "utterly groundless."

The Yellow River had washed out the main arena, north of Hankow, and the Japanese were forced to shift their forces this week from that sector to the Yangtze in order to drive on toward Hankow. This was costly business. And the Chinese cheered up and entrusted the defense of Hankow on the Yangtze front to General Chang Fah-kwei, China's "Old Ironsides."

Wednesday, Japanese planes raided Swatow—possibly preparatory to a drive to isolate Canton from Hankow. But Thursday's news concerned guerrilla activities and rumors of peace moves.

Chicago Pianos.

Off Portland, Eng., 25 years ago, George V saw seaplanes first perform in war maneuvers. Off Portland this week, George VI saw a radio-controlled plane shot down by anti-aircraft guns, called 'Chicago pianos," which fire 500 shells a minute. After inspecting 80 warships in action, George listened on a device said to locate submarines several miles away—and to tell whether they're British or foreign.

Birth of Four Babies.

When a Liverpool, Eng., teamster's wife gave birth to quadruplets last week, an amateur cameraman was on hand to make movies of the event. This week doctors previewed the 20-minute film, in full color.

QUOTES

Maurice Duperrey, president of Rotary International: "It is far better to come to a mutual understanding regarding the distribution of riches than to take them by force of arms, after which the same problems are bound to recur under another guise"

Babe Ruth, Brooklyn Dodgers' new coach: "It's great to be back in the game."

Elzada Clover, one of two women in group exploring the perilous Colorado river: "I don't think woman can do everything man can do . . . You must remember the river never before has been botanized—that is the big thing."
